Glen Campbell's Wild Life-Style Outrages His Folks Back Home

Glen Campbell's own family hate and condemn his wild, self-centered behavior. The singer's parents and brothers say he's leading an "immoral life" that has him "headed for hell."

The Campbell clan back in tiny Billstown, Ark., is outraged by Glen's string of three divorces and his sizzling romance with singer Tanya Tucker — who's half his age.

And they're furious over Glen's dumping of his 12-year-old son Kane on a sister while he and Tanya live it up.

Some angry relatives say they won't even let Glen into their homes anymore. One relative believes the star has become "an instrument of the devil."

It's a seething flood of disapproval that could become yet another obstacle in the romance of Glen, 44, and Tantalizing Tanya, 22 — who have already been fighting like crazy even while talking marriage.

"I don't approve of all Glen's divorcing! And now he's thinking of marrying a girl half his age — it ain't right. It's wrong," stormed Glen's father, John Wesley Campbell.

Carrie Campbell, the star's mother, angrily added:

"Glen is doing wrong! I don't like all his divorcing, and I told him Tanya's too young."

"He has a daughter three years older than her."

"We love him but we can't agree with his immoral life. We pray for him and we hope he gets to heaven, but the good Lord is going to have to forgive a lot."

Glen himself is tortured by his own wild, immoral behavior, say relatives.

They reveal that when Campbell returned to Billstown recently, he broke down and cried in a local church during the Sunday sermon.

"Glen began to sob as the preacher condemned sin," a close relative said.

Glen's conscience finally bothered him. He's tormented.

But as soon as Campbell left Billstown, he went back to his old ways — continuing his romance with Tanya even though his family think it's a relationship he should end fast.

"She's a child! He could be her daddy," declared Glen's oldest brother, Wayne.

Another brother, Lindell — a preacher in Billstown's Church of Christ — added:

"There's no way that a marriage between Glen and Tanya will work. There's too much of an age difference, and they fight like cats and dogs."

The Campbell clan is especially upset over Glen's treatment of his young son Kane.

In December, Glen and Tanya brought Kane to Billstown, dumped him on Glen's sister Jane in neighboring Murfreesboro — then jetted off to Nashville to visit Tanya's parents.

Glen hasn't been back since. He not only missed Christmas with his son, he also wasn't there when Kane was 12 on February 12.

"I wish my daddy had been here for my birthday. But he was with Tanya," said the boy.

"I want to be with my daddy. I love Daddy and I miss him."

And Glen almost never sees his year-old son Dillon Ian, who lives with the singer's ex-wife Sarah.

One relative, upset by Glen's antics, declared: "I don't want his likes in my house. He's an instrument of the devil."

Said another outraged relative, a housewife: "I don't want a man that sinful in my home."

It's not only Glen's romance with Tanya and his treatment of his children but his whole fast-paced life-style that has his relatives upset.

Storms his brother Lindell: "Glen is going against the laws of God. His divorces, his romance, the whole thing is just too much for me and our folks."

"He has slapped God right in the face. He has turned from God. I pray for him every day, hoping the Lord will forgive him."

"I love Glen, the Lord loves Glen, but He hates sin — and Glen is sinning. He's headed for hell."

The family admits Glen helps them financially. "He's kind and generous," says his father. "But he's leading an immoral life and the Lord knows that."

"He's got a good soul and we love him, but he's not going to get to heaven. You can't buy your way into heaven."

Military Life Is Better for Women Than Men

By PAUL F. LEVY

Women are happier with military life than men are, an eye-opening study has found.

"Women are definitely better suited to their jobs in the military than men," declared Dr. David Gottlieb, who made a study of 115 enlistees for the Army Research Institute.

"They're more satisfied, their expectations are different and they're more mature. Also, they've already been trained by society to be more passive and accepting of discipline. They're housebroken."

Simple Way to Avoid Lung Cancer From Smoking

In an astounding new discovery, doctors have found a way you can smoke and never worry about it giving you lung cancer.

All you have to do is regularly take a simple sputum test that spots the changes in lung cells which signal the beginning of cancer.

If the changes aren't present, you have nothing to fear. And if they ever show up in a test, you just stop smoking — and you won't get lung cancer, say researchers.

The sputum cytology examination should be taken by smokers every three months, say top doctors.

If a smoker's test is clear at first, but a later test shows the precancerous cells ("dysplasia"), the smoker can cure himself just by giving up cigarettes provided the condition was caused by smoking, declares Canadian lung cancer specialist Dr. Norman Delarue.

"If he quits smoking then he can be virtually sure that the changes will reverse," the expert said.

At least 80 percent of all lung cancer is due to smoking, say experts. The rest is caused by such factors as asbestos, pollution and coal dust.

Dr. M. Nadji, director of the cytopathology laboratory at the University of Miami-Jackson Memorial Medical Center, agrees that "if a person quits smoking at the very first sign of dysplasia, it's very sure that the changes will reverse."

Once a smoker quits the habit, he gets rid of precancerous cells by coughing them up, said Dr. Delarue.

He added that if a sputum test shows clear, there's no way you could advance to lung cancer by the time you take another test three or four months later. The disease takes far longer than that to develop, he explained.

Dr. Delarue and his associates did a study of seven patients who gave up smoking immediately after doctors detected dysplasia in their lungs. And the researchers' discovery was recently reported in the prestigious Canadian Journal of Surgery.

"We found that the seven patients had cured themselves," Dr. Delarue revealed. "None had any cancer even after five years."

Once the victim stops smoking, he should be checked in three months to make sure the condition has reversed itself, says Dr. Robert Hagopian, assistant professor of surgery and oncology at the University of Miami.

Dr. Delarue's discovery was hailed as "very important" by Dr. Emil Freireich, head of the department of developmental therapeutics at the University of Texas's M.D. Anderson Hospital. "It's a very positive finding," he said. "Even if you have early lung cancer, the chances are you can cure yourself."

You can get the test through your personal physician, says Dr. Warren Lang of Philadelphia's Jefferson Medical College. The cost is usually $25 to $30.

"You have to cough up from the lungs. Simple saliva isn't enough. It means really reaching down, a good deep cough," adds Dr. Lang, acting chairman of the college's department of pathology.

Most people can easily cough up sputum, say doctors. If not, breathing a special spray will help.

The doctors point out that the easiest way of all to protect yourself against cancer is to not smoke.

But if you just can't give up smoking, then the sputum test is your best protection.

Girls Get a Kick Out of Soccer

The Arsenic player appears to be getting the worst of it here, but her team went on to win.

State Imports White Rabbits — For Hunters to Kill

By NEIL BLINCOE

The State of Rhode Island bought 100 cute snowshoe rabbits from Canada — so local hunters could blow them to bits.

In a disgusting example of bureaucratic cruelty, the bunnies were specially ordered to arrive during the hunting season, and were released in popular hunting areas.

"This is deplorable," fumed Dennis Tabella, president of Defenders of Animals. "These sick bureaucrats just don't give a damn that a lot of people don't think killing is justified — and especially don't want their state to pay for it with their tax dollars."

The state's Department of Environmental Management spent $625 to buy the rabbits from the Canadian province of New Brunswick.

"The head of the department said he was under pressure from the hunters to order the rabbits," Tabella charged.

And the department's deputy chief for wildlife, James Chadwick, admitted: "By buying the rabbits, we are serving as middleman to keep the hunters happy. There are no laws prohibiting us from importing animals for hunting."

Furious Francis Gaschen, attorney for Defenders of Animals, added, "Snowshoe rabbits are the big, white Easter Bunny-type rabbits. It's ironic that the state is letting people go at the university because they can't pay salaries — yet they go out and buy wildlife for a few hunters to blow to bits."

Cries of protest also came from the state's Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (SPCA).

"The state should be saving wildlife, not going out of the way to have it butchered," stormed SPCA general agent Lionel Hetu.

SHE Was Once a HE

In one of the most bizarre love stories ever, a retired Army officer is suing his beautiful ex-girlfriend — after he found out she once was a man.

For four years, Otto Chesnosky, 53, and Suzanne Shaw, a 30-year-old blonde dancer, were head over heels in love. They were engaged to be married in 1977.

But the romance spurred a lawsuit instead when he learned the startling secret that Shaw was born male but underwent a sex-change operation in 1976.

"It was a shock when I found out she wasn't really a woman," said Chesnosky. "Someone else told me she had a sex change. I was very disappointed. She's a beautiful woman."

... And a Love Story Ends In Court Instead of Church

Chesnosky, who lives in Columbus, Ga., has filed a civil suit against Shaw, demanding the return of $56,000 in cash, gifts and real estate he gave her during their love affair.

A $26,000 down payment on a house, a $3,500 fur coat and a $5,700 engagement ring are among the items he has listed in the suit filed in Bucks County Court near Shaw's suburban Philadelphia home. Shaw "masqueraded as a woman, wearing women's clothes and makeup and a feminine hairstyle," and she never intended to marry but planned to defraud Chesnosky, the former Army officer charges in the suit.

Shaw denies duping Chesnosky. "I was always Suzanne," she said, pointing out that she changed her legal name as well as her sex. "I had fallen in love with Otto and wanted to get married, but he just walked out and left. Like any woman, it broke my heart," said Shaw.

The couple met shortly after her sex-change operation, when Shaw was working as a dancer in a Philadelphia nightclub. Chesnosky took her to the finest restaurants, bought her gifts, even introduced her to his children from a former marriage.

When he learned of the operation, "he just left me cold. I spent the weekend crying my eyes out. It was a shock. We had a wonderful romance. We were a man and a woman in love. If only it hadn't ended this way," said Shaw.

"It could have been a marriage made in heaven."

China's Amazing Psychic Children

Top experts are amazed at the astonishing ability of Chinese children to "read" words and "see" colors with their hands, ears and amputations.

And some Chinese youngsters even have X-ray vision, they say.

After conducting experiments under rigid scientific conditions, the experts have come to the conclusion that the youngsters' remarkable abilities are absolutely genuine.

"I see no chance of cheating or fraud having taken place in the tests," marveled Harvard-educated Chinese-American physicist Dr. Chih Kung Jen.

And, he added, the few children who have already been carefully tested in China are just the tip of the iceberg.

He estimates that as many as 50 percent of China's youngsters can do the same things.

Chinese researchers report an amazing 11-year-old boy can "see" the position of a baby inside its mother.

"I have also heard accounts of children who are able to see through the human body and see the lung and heart," added Dr. Jen.

In three tests involving a total of 12 children last fall, Dr. Jen and other experts were amazed when the youngsters "read" messages concealed inside carefully folded paper. Incredibly, the youngsters achieved 98 percent average accuracy.

When holding the wrapped paper, he said, "The children told us they experienced both a warmth and a tingling sensation in their hands — like pin pricks — and that the sensation traveled along the nerve lines of their body to their head."

In their mind's eye, Dr. Jen said, the children first saw a hazy, small image of the written words.

Then, he reported, the image "began to expand while the color remained constant, the word changed from hazy to bright, and became visibly large and highly readable."

During the tests, some children had amazing success "reading" messages which were held up to their ears, hands, backs and other parts of the body.

And in one case, he said, a 10-year-old Peking girl correctly recited words written on paper, wrapped up, sealed inside a wax ball and placed in a plastic box.

China's incredible psychic children were also studied firsthand by Dr. Cyrus Lee, a professor of psychology at Pennsylvania's Edinboro State College.

During scientific tests he helped prepare in China last year, Dr. Lee also reported he found about 200 youngsters who could read with their ears and many other parts of their bodies.

"There was no way these children could cheat," Dr. Lee said.

"They were blindfolded and required to work in darkened rooms."

Another ESP test in China, conducted in front of 10 audiences totaling more than 2,000 scientists, doctors, educators and journalists, was sponsored by the respected scientific journal Nature.

In the test, 14 youngsters read messages that were hidden in heavy paper bags or plastic boxes.

One girl read a message that was placed under her armpit.

Accounts in Chinese newspapers tell of even more youngsters with the amazing ability. One report told of an engineer who was trying to locate an underground cement pipe — and a psychic boy led him right to the spot.

And experienced Chinese newspaper reporter Ah Er described his amazing encounter with a 16-year-old girl who literally saw right through him.

"Her eyes focused on my chest, and she exclaimed, 'Your esophagus (food pipe) looks different from a normal person's.' She drew a section of my esophagus, with a small shape sticking out. Her drawing looked exactly like X-rays which had been taken by two hospitals I had visited. I was dumbfounded."

Will She Be Lady Mary?

Multimillionaire British Aristocrat Is Romancing Mary Tyler Moore

Springtime romance is budding for Mary Tyler Moore and the new man in her life, dashing British aristocrat Sir Gordon White.

Mary and the silver-haired multimillionaire, who owns a string of racehorses, have been enjoying cozy dinner dates together in swank New York City and at his elegant Park Avenue apartment.

Insiders say the happy couple have also been spotted hugging and kissing openly in public like a pair of lovestick teenagers.

"He's very fond of her," confirmed Sir Gordon's longtime friend and business associate, Edward Collins.

"Certainly there is more than just a platonic relationship."

A budding romance would be a pretty close evaluation of it.

Mary, 43, and Sir Gordon, 57, met earlier this year through mutual friends and "just seemed to hit it off," according to Collins, an executive of an international investment firm headed by Sir Gordon.

"Since then, they've been out quite a few times, mostly dinner dates in New York," Collins revealed. "They are very wrapped up in each other."

"Sir Gordon thinks that Mary is a wonderful person,"

GRANT TINKER: Mary's husband for 17 years.

Collins told The ENQUIRER.

A friend of Mary in Hollywood confided: "Ever since Mary broke up with her husband, Grant Tinker, she's been looking for a man she can respect. Sir Gordon fits the bill right down to his coat of arms."

"Can you imagine — if they marry she'll be Lady Mary!"

The popular actress, who recently was nominated for an Oscar for her role in "Ordinary People," has been separated from her husband since September and has filed for divorce after 17 years of marriage.

Sir Gordon was divorced nearly two years ago from his second wife and has a son and two daughters.

He races horses in England and France, has homes in London, New York and Bermuda, and he was knighted in 1979 by Queen Elizabeth for his efforts in promoting British exports.

"Gordon's just the right type for Mary," said the actress' Hollywood friend.

"He's successful in his own right, he's distinguished and he's a sophisticated man of the world."

"For Mary, he's a welcome change from the show business types she usually associates with," the friend added.

Recently at piano player Bobby Short's opening night at the ritzy Cafe Carlyle in New York, Mary and Sir Gordon were spotted cuddling in the shadows like two people in love.

"They weren't making any secret of it," said one source. "They were really going at it, really making a display. Mary had her arms around his neck and was kissing him on the lips in front of everyone. I couldn't believe it."

A photographer at the same cafe confirmed that Mary and Sir Gordon were hugging and kissing at their table, and said that they continued to love it up in their car as they left the night spot.

"She really seemed pleased that we had taken pictures of them together," the photographer said.

"She wasn't trying to hide anything at all. She had eyes only for him."

Holdup 6 Years Ago Made Her a Widow, So This Time . . . Shopkeeper Shoots First — And Kills Gun-Toting Robber

BUSINESS AS USUAL for Lucila Peters, shown waiting on customer in her Los Angeles grocery store.

Six years after her grocer husband was mercilessly gunned down in a holdup by a cold-blooded killer, Lucila Peters got revenge against the lawless animals who prey on decent, hardworking Americans.

Last January 19, a young robber strutted into her Los Angeles market and demanded money at gunpoint — and Lucila blasted him into hell with a .38-caliber pistol she'd hidden behind the counter.

"When I saw his gun," the spunky 43-year-old shopkeeper recalled, "I thought: 'Oh, my God! It's happening again. They got my husband — now they're going to get me.'"

"I knew he was going to shoot me. But I thought 'No! I'm going to get him first.'"

"I raised my gun — and shot him."

The would-be thief died an hour later at a local hospital.

"Mrs. Peters is a hero — absolutely," declared Los Angeles Police Detective Glen Tapley. "When she saw that gun pointed at her, it was very brave of her to raise her own gun and fire."

"She had no way of knowing whether she'd get the first shot off."

The detective paused, and then added: "Maybe if thieves thought this was what was going to happen to them, there'd be fewer robberies."

Mrs. Peters, who witnessed her husband's brutal murder in 1974, said she's been afraid for her own life ever since.

But the plucky woman refused to be driven out of business. Instead, she kept the .38 constantly within reach.

"We're Christians," she explained, "but we believe in taking care of ourselves, too."

After killing the snarling gunman who was trying to loot her store, Mrs. Peters said, she "started shaking. And I've been shaking ever since."

"But, thank God, I'll be around to take care of my children. They won't have to live without a mother — like they had to live without a father."

"And the next person who comes in and tries to rob my store had better think twice about it — because I'm going to have my gun ready."

Billy Graham What Heaven Is Really Like

Heaven won't be a place to just sit around floating on clouds, because God will be keeping us too busy, says evangelist Billy Graham.

"The Father's house will be a happy home because there will also be work to do," Graham said. "I can think of no more terrible fate than to be condemned to sit forever and ever in idleness."

"Each one will be given exactly the task that suits his powers, tastes and abilities. Perhaps God will give us new worlds to conquer. Perhaps He will send us to explore some distant planet or star, there to preach His message of everlasting love.

"Whatever we do, the Bible

says we shall serve Him. "Friends will be there. Families will be reunited. Not one of us who enters will feel lonely or strange."

"Heaven is home, with all its tender associations and sacred memories. "Sometimes when things do not go right down here, we get homesick for heaven," he added.

Rev. Graham explained that many times, when you feel a tug at your heart when suffering a loss or sick in the hospital, you are actually feeling "homesickness (for heaven), coupled with anticipation."

"You are longing for home for heaven," he said. "Heaven is so beautiful that when St. John caught a glimpse of it, the only thing he could liken it to was a young woman on the crowning day of her life — her wedding day.

"Don't be ridiculous! If there was anyone else do you think I'd still be married to you?"

"The holy city was like a bride adorned for her husband, the book of Revelation says. The Bible talks about gates of pearl and streets of gold.

"Heaven is our permanent home. It will be happy because there will be nothing to make it sad. There will be music.

"In heaven there will be no sin, no sorrow, no quarrels, no hurt feelings, no pain, no sickness, no death.

"With heaven, Christ has taken away the fear of death and has given hope.

"By trusting God, heaven can become your permanent home."

An incredible new lifesaving technique — using a bolt-like instrument inserted into the skull — is bringing drowning victims back from the dead!

In one remarkable case, a 14-year-old tot was revived — without a brain-damage — after floating face-down in water for about 15 minutes and with no heartbeat for more than half an hour.

Amazing New Technique Brings Drowning Victims Back to Life
The victim is temporarily put into a coma — which also lowers the need for oxygen — and is kept alive with artificial respiration.

"It's a revolutionary technique," declared Dr. Nussbaum, who is director of the pediatric intensive care unit at Miller Children's Hospital in Long Beach, Calif.

"And it's becoming more and more popular. Hopefully, within five years, it'll be used in almost every hospital."

A Canadian colleague, Dr. Alan Conn, said: "We've made some spectacular progress in this area. We feel that if someone is under cold water for long as 15 minutes, he has around a 91 percent chance of a complete recovery."

Dr. Conn is director of the intensive care unit at Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children.

Dr. Geoffrey Barker, the associate director at the hospital, noted that the lifesaving treatment has been used there with "some fairly dramatic success."

"We've had examples of children who had been under water for 15 to 20 minutes. In the old days they would not have survived. But with this technique there may still be hope for many drowned persons that people think are dead."

Fred Astaire and Jockey Wife Put Marriage Back on the Right Track

Fred Astaire and his jockey wife Robyn are once again galloping down the road of love — and stamping out reports that their nine-month-old marriage is in trouble.

London newspapers reported that he had offered his 38-year-old wife a $1-million divorce settlement.

Astaire labeled the reports "completely asinine," adding, "Robyn and I have never even been in a quarrel." And insiders declare that the 81-year-old entertainer is determined to make his marriage work.

Earlier this winter, Robyn worked at the racetrack while Astaire spent two months filming the new movie "Ghost Story" on location in New England. There, he turned to pretty production assistant Suzie Peterson, 28, for companionship, according to reports which Astaire later denied.

His absence from Robyn while on location made his heart grow fonder.

"Fred and Robyn are as different as night and day and they've certainly had their differences," said a longtime friend.

"But when Fred was away from Robyn for so long, he realized that he missed her and he did a lot of thinking about where his life was going. 'So when he returned home recently, he figured it was a great time for a second honeymoon at home.'"

"And that's exactly what they've been having — a second honeymoon to square things away."

Astaire bought Robyn a beautiful jeweled gift after he returned to Hollywood and on March 22 he took her out to the posh Palm Restaurant in

The Astaires were "very lovey-dovey," said an observer.

"Astaire was all smiles and they both looked like they were very happy and in love. He put his arm around her and posed with her for some photos."

Said an insider, "Right now Fred seems supremely happy."

"Magic" Indian Oil CATCHES FISH LIKE CRAZY!

I made this remarkable discovery when my son went on his first fishing trip with me. We hired this old Indian guide in a small town in Wisconsin. When our guide showed Mark how to bait his hook, I noticed that he rubbed something on the bait just before Mark put the line in the lake. Within minutes Mark had himself a beautiful bass. You can imagine how pleased I was and Mark, of course, wanted more.

So the whole thing was repeated — the guide put on the bait, rubbed it again, and up popped another beauty. Meanwhile, I sat there patiently waiting for my first fish.

This went on all morning. Mark caught 30 bass and I got eight. When I pulled the boat in at noon and paid off our Indian guide, I noticed that a small, unsung hero had apparently fallen from the guide's pocket into the bottom of our boat. The odor from the seal was quite strong and certainly different from anything I had ever smelled before. This was what he had rubbed on Mark's bait!

When we returned home the next day, I gave the seal to a chemist friend of mine. He analyzed it and duplicated it into a spray for me.

I could hardly wait for my next fishing trip. What I discovered on that trip was absolutely unbelievable. I have never before caught fish like that. Every time I baited my hook, I sprayed it and up popped another fish.

I used some more. I put spray on one bait and nothing on another. The sprayed bait got the fish almost immediately. The unsprayed bait got some nibbles, but nothing more.

I gave some of my friends samples of the spray to try and the results were the same — they caught fish like never before.

I named my spray "CATCH FISH LIKE CRAZY" because that's just what it does and it works with all kinds of fresh or salt water fish. It works equally well on artificial or live bait.

Here's what fishermen say about my spray:

Enquirer's Ronald Reagan Look-Alike Takes Washington, D.C., by Storm

By GEORGE HUNTER

When does a New York City ex-cop get VIP treatment from both wide-eyed tourists and astonished residents in Washington, D.C.?

When he's the mirror image of the President of the United States — and the $500 winner of The ENQUIRER's Ronald Reagan Look-Alike Contest!

"This is fantastic!" exulted Jay Koch moments after being mobbed by an excited throng outside the east gate of the White House.

"I've been mistaken for Ronald Reagan for 30 years — but for it to happen so dramatically right outside the White House is absolutely unbelievable."

The ENQUIRER escorted the 56-year-old Koch on a whirlwind two-day tour of the nation's capital to see if he could fool people on the street with his uncanny resemblance to the new President.

And there were double takes galore!

One Washington resident, Gilda Del Signore, convinced that she had spotted the President, ran up breathlessly to shake Koch's hand.

"It's incredible!" she gasped when the former police sergeant revealed his identity.

"Terrific! You even have the personality to go with your looks."

As Koch — who now lives in Camarillo, Calif. — casually strolled through the U.S. Capitol building, Edward Brown of Shelbyville, Tenn., commented:

"The resemblance is remarkable — and I can see how you'd fool a lot of people."

Outside the White House, hundreds of thrilled tourists surrounded the smiling Koch — pushing to get closer so they could shake his hand or get his autograph.

"Mr. President!" cried out German tourist Fritz Baur of Essen, who then dashed to Koch's side to congratulate him on his election victory.

"Are you really President Reagan?" astonished admirers asked.

"No," he laughed. "Sorry. I'm Jay Koch. The NATIONAL ENQUIRER's Ronald Reagan look-alike winner. I've never even met the President."

A dumbfounded White House guard shouted: "Well, you certainly look like the President."

Even Washington attorney Mitchell Rogovin, who worked in John Anderson's unsuccessful presidential campaign and has actually met President Reagan, delightedly told Jay Koch: "You're a great look-alike. You really caught me off guard."

HANDSHAKES GALORE were the order of the day from tourists outside the White House when Jay Koch strolled by. He was mobbed by hundreds of people who wanted to meet him and get his autograph.

AMAZED: Washington attorney Mitchell Rogovin, who worked in John Anderson's unsuccessful presidential campaign and has actually met President Reagan, delightedly told Jay Koch: "You're a great look-alike. You really caught me off guard."

Mix and Match

A woman contracted for a painter to redecorate her apartment and the moment he arrived she handed him a wooden paddle, the end of which was dabbed with paint. She ordered him to match the color as closely as possible.

When she saw the finished job, she was overwhelmed. "It's perfect — just marvelous," she said.

"You certainly have a skill for matching colors." The painter smiled his appreciation and kept his mouth shut. Later, he told another painter what the woman had said.

The other painter couldn't believe it. "How did you do it?" he wondered.

"Simple," was the answer. "I just repainted the paddle."

When it comes to covering sports, the men behind the mikes in the TV booth are big winners in the money game.

Howard "The Mouth" Cosell far outdistances his colleagues in salary — earning a cool $1 million a year.

"People tune him in because they love to hate him, yet he is undoubtedly the highest-paid sportscaster in America," said an insider.

Brent Musburger recently signed a four-year pact with CBS for a reported $600,000-plus a year.

"He's popular because he covers a broad spectrum of viewers without offending many of them," said a sports consultant.

"Brent is also a smooth show-biz type who's very polished and knows his stuff."

NBC's Bryant Gumbel — who rakes in about $600,000 annually — also comes from the same mold, said the consultant.

"Bryant has risen very fast in the last few years — and he's still climbing."

As ABC's host of the Olympics coverage and "Wide World of Sports," Jim McKay draws an annual salary of $500,000. "His handling of the Israeli massacre at the 1972 Olympics in Munich gained him a great deal of prestige," said the consultant. "Jim is at the top."

Also making $500,000 a year is New York's popular sportscaster Marv Albert of NBC.

Albert is versatile and he is an "excellent play-by-play man," said a knowledgeable source.

Among other well-known TV sportscasters who are filling their pocketbooks with big bucks are: Pat Summerall, CBS, $400,000 a year; Don Meredith of ABC, $350,000; Frank Gifford, ABC, $350,000; Phyllis George Brown, CBS, $350,000; Keith Jackson of ABC, $350,000; Warner Wolfe, CBS-NY, $300,000; Jimmy

"The salaries of sports announcers have skyrocketed the last few years because of the huge audiences they draw," said an insider.

The consultant added that sports have become a lucrative form of show business — and the announcers have become personalities in their own right.

"It's rather ridiculous that these announcers are actually making more money than most of the players they report on," said a source, "but that's show biz."

The Best & Worst-Dressed Stars at the Oscars

MARY TYLER MOORE

"It was too young for her, but she's stuck in a time warp."

DIANA ROSS

"Fabulous, wonderful and exciting."

DOLLY PARTON

"She looked more like a Mae West stand-in."

ANGIE DICKINSON

"A great disappointment and 10 years too late."

GOLDIE HAWN

"Ruffled disaster worse than standard Goldie."

SALLY FIELD

"It looked like her toga was held up with chewing gum."

Dolly Parton looked like a "Mae West stand-in" . . . Brooke Shields proved "she has no fashion sense" . . . and Angie Dickinson's violet dress was "10 years too late."

Those were some of the scorching indictments handed down by famed fashion designer Mr. Blackwell on top female stars at the recent Academy Awards.

By ANGELA BROOKS

Only a few big names were spared. Blackwell praised Diana Ross' "ravishingly elegant" dress and Mary Tyler Moore's one-puffed-sleeve creation.

However, the designer declared that most of the actresses were guilty of "rubber stamp" fashion.

"There was no individuality," he sniffed. "Fashion-wise, the actresses are floundering. They don't have the direction and discipline it takes to develop a personal look."

In an exclusive ENQUIRER interview, Blackwell gave his verdicts on the best and worst:

WORST DRESSED

Dolly Parton: "She let us all down by looking more like a Mae West stand-in than herself with that low-cut sequined dress. Her hair was in shreds. She looked like she'd combed it with a lawnmower."

Brooke Shields: "She proved that she has no fashion sense at all. Her cream taffeta Alice in Wonderland dress reminded me of stale icing on a once delicious cake."

Angie Dickinson: "Her violet satin dress was a great disappointment, pathetically wrong—and 10 years too late. Everything was hanging and swinging from the earrings on down. She made believe she looked gorgeous but she only fooled herself."

Sally Field: "It looked like her cream toga was being held up with chewing gum. She was a washed-out Norma Rae but in the movie she intentionally looked bad."

Goldie Hawn: "She was a ruffled disaster. It's hard to imagine how this could be worse than standard Goldie fashion—but it is. And her hair was an unmitigated disaster. Didn't she brush it when she jumped out of the shower?"

BEST DRESSED

Diana Ross: "Her soft, black off-the-shoulder spangled gown was fabulous, wonderful and exciting. This year's crown goes to her for a ravishingly elegant dress."

Mary Tyler Moore: "Bravo, she obviously tried hard with her one-puffed-sleeve gown. There's no question it was too young for her, but she's stuck in a time warp at 23."

BROOKE SHIELDS

"She proved that she has no fashion sense at all."

11 Dogs — And Only 1 Is Real

In fact, only one of the dogs in this photo is real! The others are all creations of the Wakefield, England, woman.

The cuddly pups she puts out seem so alive that even her four living dogs are often deceived and bark at them.

An animal lover, Griffiths has been making these replicas for 16 years, using everything from a foam-backed fur fabric rug to imitation Swedish lamb coat material.

Which dog is the authentic living animal in this photo? It's Tula the dachshund, shown in Mrs. Griffiths' right hand.

We see how much a man has and we envy him; if we could see how little he enjoys, we would pity him.

The Startling Truth About Bing Crosby's Early Career

In his climb to the top, Bing Crosby projected the image of a warm, outgoing, wholesome young singer. But to many who really knew him then, he was a selfish, irresponsible booze hound. Here, in another exclusive ENQUIRER installment from the soon-to-be-published book "Bing Crosby: The Hollow Man," authors Donald Shepherd and Robert Slatzer reveal how Crosby, as an up-and-coming singer, missed shows because he was passed out drunk in the gutter.

By DONALD SHEPHERD and ROBERT SLATZER

During his first crack at stardom, Bing Crosby was a falling-down drunk.

Bing was a member of the singing trio The Rhythm Boys who appeared with the Paul Whiteman band. Although Whiteman was impressed with Bing's talents, he was incensed at Bing's drinking and his indifference to responsibilities.

Numerous people who were around Crosby in those early days — including a couple of musicians who were with Whiteman — recalled that Crosby caused Whiteman a lot of grief. Bing frequently missed engagements and on at least three occasions Whiteman sent someone out looking for him and found him — literally — in the gutter, passed-out drunk in front of some speakeasy or other watering hole.

On one occasion in Philadelphia, they found him in the gutter during winter, lying in the snow and ice. That's the way booze affected Bing, but he wouldn't stop drinking.

Instead of taking The Rhythm Boys on tour with the band in 1927, Whiteman booked the trio on the vaudeville circuit, possibly because of Crosby's penchant for doing what he damn well pleased, and without the knowledge of his partners Harry Barris or Al Rinker.

During these vaudeville days, Bing still didn't change — as one drunken episode clearly showed.

"We had just finished our date at the Orpheum Theater in Chicago," Rinker recalled, "and our next stop was at Rockford, Ill. So Barris and I took the train that night to Rockford after the show. Instead of joining us, Bing went out that night with a girl he had met in San Francisco named Peggy Bernier, an actress. She and Bing had a little romance going."

"Bing told us he'd stay behind and catch the early-morning train to Rockford." But when he failed to show for the afternoon performance, Barris and Rinker ad-libbed while playing the two pianos and singing. "The audience didn't seem to mind, so we got by that performance," said Rinker.

"But when it came time for the next one, Bing was still missing. Now we were really worried. We had no way of locating him. So Barris and I did the second show and got by. When it was over, I called our hotel, and lo and behold, Bing answered."

"What had happened is that he and Peggy had gone out on the town the night before, and Bing really got loaded. He was drunk when Peggy put him on the train, and he slept all the way to Rockford — about 80 miles or so from Chicago."

"When he got off the train, he was still falling-down drunk and the cops picked him up and threw him in jail. He was in jail all day — loaded — and they wouldn't let him make any calls.

"Here we were, knocking ourselves out doing the shows, and he was in jail. Barris and I were furious."

When Bing and The Rhythm Boys were in Hollywood to appear in a career-boosting movie musical with the Paul Whiteman band in 1930, Bing again got into serious trouble with the bottle.

It happened when Bing, after drinking a few, was driving a date home late at night when his car collided with another auto.

The girl was thrown over the windshield and onto the pavement. Fortunately, the girl wasn't seriously injured — though she was bloody and unconscious. Bing carried her into a nearby hotel lobby and got someone to attend to her wounds before returning to the scene of the accident, where he was promptly arrested for driving under the influence and hauled down to the Lincoln Heights Jail for the night.

Whiteman had Bing bailed out the next morning, and he was back on the set at Universal. He reported to court a week later for his hearing, ready to pay the fine for his misdemeanor.

But he had spent the morning playing golf, as usual, and showed up in court still dressed in his golfing knickers, loud socks, and even louder sweater. When his case was called, the judge studied his report for a moment, then said, "It says here, HBD him transferred to the Hollywood division, from which he was allowed out every day to work on the film, and locked up again at night.

His daily release made it possible to do The Rhythm Boys segments of the film, but Whiteman either couldn't or wouldn't hold up the filming of a feature solo, "Song of the Dawn," which had been promised to Bing. Instead it was shot with John Boles while Bing was locked up at the county jail. Bing was bitterly disappointed.

Bing continued to hit the bottle and because of his intolerance for alcohol, it put him out of commission for two or three days at a time. Usually, he couldn't work while drinking, but on at least one occasion he tried.

Dr. J. DeWitt Fox, now a prominent neurosurgeon in Los Angeles, recalls attending a function at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel at which Gus Arnheim's orchestra appeared. Bing was the band's soloist.

Dr. Fox says that when it came time for Bing to do his first number, he stood pale and unsteady at the mike while the orchestra played the introduction to his song.

Then, as Bing opened his mouth to sing, he vomited — on his suit front, his shoes and on several members of his socialite audience who had gathered close to the bandstand to hear him sing.

NEXT WEEK: The time hooky-playing, pastry-stealing Bing was locked up in jail — on his mother's orders.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

Men are flocking to jobs traditionally held by women, a new study reveals.

Each year more and more males are becoming nurses, receptionists and flight attendants — and they're also moving into other jobs once considered for women only, notes the federally funded study by the Urban Institute of Washington, D.C.

"Between 1972 and 1978, for

More & More Men Are Taking Women's Jobs

example, the percentage of male secretaries rose by 24 percent," revealed economist Jean Vanski, who helped do the study.

"In this same time period, male telephone operators rose 38 percent and male registered nurses increased 94 percent.

"Dental hygienists went from zero males to 2,000. Librarians had a 12 percent increase in males. And male airline attendants increased from 1,000 to 6,000 — a jump of 500 percent."

Institute researchers say the crossover is due to two factors:

1. Jobs for men are in short supply these days — while traditionally female jobs are growing in number.

2. Role models are breaking down. Society doesn't look as critically today at men who take on traditionally female jobs.

Vanski says that she and other researchers were "surprised" by their findings — but believe the male influx into female jobs will continue.

'Dynasty' Stars in Real-Life Love Scenes

IN SEVENTH HEAVEN, Pamela and her costar share a kiss. She's crazy about him, says one friend.

By DONNA ROSENTHAL

Pamela Sue Martin — "Dynasty's" bed-hopping temptress Fallon Carrington — is romancing actor Al Corley, who plays her misfit brother Steve.

"It's hot and heavy. Pam and Al's romance is the real drama on the 'Dynasty' set," reveals a close friend of the two.

"Pam is a one-man woman, and it looks like Al is the one."

Playing close-knit brother and sister, Pam, 28, and 24-year-old Al share many family scenes in front of the cameras. But off-camera their scenes turn to romance, say insiders.

"Pam's crazy about Al. She appreciates his quiet, sensitive side and his witty humor," the friend said. "Al adores her feisty spirit and zest for life. He says she has beauty, brains and guts.

"They both love action sports — together they're like a mini-Olympics team. They are both excellent at scuba diving, skiing, rafting, ballroom, the friend said. "Al looms and tennis. They're outdoor lovers. Their favorite dates are backpacking in the mountains.

"Pamela's bubbly, fun and captivating. Al is warm, mature and understanding. And both of them are in seventh heaven."

Pamela, the statuesque actress who starred in the short-lived "Nancy Drew" TV series, divorced her Argentine millionaire husband George Bruch before their first anniversary last year, said a longtime friend of hers.

"She has been dating a kaleidoscope of men the last year. But now everything's fallen into place. Her career has taken off with 'Dynasty' and she's found a man who understands her needs."

"Al's the special man in her life. He fulfills a lot of her fantasies and they share similar dreams. Pam's captivated by him."

An actor on "Dynasty" confided, "Al thinks the world of Pamela. They're a delightful couple. I can easily understand why their romance clicks."

Another source spotted the two dining together at a fashionable restaurant in Hollywood.

"They're crazy about each other," he confided. "They were oblivious to everyone else, in a world of their own. They kissed and held hands throughout the meal."

She Turned Hamburger Stand Into $Multimillion Empire

'It Was 18-20 Hours a Day of Drudgery — But I Had Tremendous Drive'

"I'm a tiger. In times of stress and in times of need, I stood up as strong and fearless. When it came time for important decisions, I was there."

So says Marilyn Lewis, who hitchhiked to California from her Ohio home when she was 18, boldly opened a hamburger stand that was equipped with a simple two-burner hot plate — and now heads a restaurant empire that serves a whopping $30 million in food each year.

"I was a workhorse — 18 to 20 hours a day," recalled the 30-year-old tycoon of that first Hamburger Hamlet on Hollywood's Sunset Strip.

Now there are 22 such restaurants nationwide.

"I did everything — all the cooking and washed the dishes. Closed at 4 a.m. and reopened at 7 a.m."

"It was drudgery. There were days that got me down — but I didn't want to give up. I had tremendous drive."

"And I'd do it all over again. Even after 30 years, it's really a labor of love."

Lewis revealed that she still puts in many an 18-hour day — personally training the cooks as each new Hamburger Hamlet opens.

"She's a remarkable lady

"She started out with nothing — and now has an absolutely beautiful mansion in Beverly Hills, a Rolls-Royce and everything else she wants. But I've never seen anyone work harder."

Lewis sums up her success simply: "I'm single-minded," she told THE ENQUIRER. "I'm patient. I have the ability to laugh at myself. And when there's a job to be done — I get it done."

Doctors Failed To Help You?

Have you been through endless physicals, tests, X-rays, or surgery and you're still not well? You're not alone. Chances are good you've been the "guinea pig" for a variety of expensive drugs and medicines that have just made you feel worse. Perhaps you've been told by doctors that "it's all in your head" or "you've got to learn to relax." Obviously the "medical system" has failed once again. Do you now feel you have no one else to turn to for help? Then turn to yourself! It's time you took the responsibility for your own well-being. The beginning step for helping yourself is gaining knowledge.

LIFE SYSTEMS INSTITUTE is dedicated to the goal of teaching and guiding persons who have been outcast by "medical people" because their illness didn't respond to drug therapy or surgery or other traditional "medical" efforts. Learn the answers to these questions — What is the true cause of disease? Is there such thing as a cure? What is the truth about drugs? How can you show why you should trust your body's own automatic healing system to make you well. Then most important of all — learn how you can instantly release the perfect healing power within you. ROACH PRUFE is odorless, non-evaporating, non-staining and non-flammable. It is simply applied with a teaspoon under kitchen appliances and other hidden areas. It can be used in homes, schools, hospitals, restaurants, plus new construction.

Brite has a problem, however. He says most retailers apparently think it's unprofitable to stock ROACH PRUFE on their shelves when the same customers will come in again and again to buy the other insecticides. So until they do, he's decided to sell his product direct to consumers.

ROACH PRUFE costs $7.95 plus 95¢ for postage for a one-pound can, add 6% tax in California. One can covers up to a 9-room residence, plus one can for basement and garage. Across Burning Deserts & Rugged Mountains ... Dog Treks 500 Miles to Rejoin Family

By DAVID BARRITT

A brave dog named Blackie made an incredible journey — almost 500 miles across mountain and desert — to find the family she loved.

Amazingly, the courageous dog spent over 24 years trudging rugged terrain, in blistering heat and bone-numbing cold, to be joyously reunited with her owners.

"It is incredible," said Blackie's owner, William son Douglas to Port Elizabeth, 488 miles away.

But a promised job offer fell through, and in January 1978 Nicol was forced to head back to Paarl.

The poverty-stricken family, unable to afford the cost of caring for a dog, sadly decided to leave their beloved Blackie with friends in Port Elizabeth.

"None of us ever forgot Blackie," Nicol said. "She had been a very special dog to us and we all missed her. My son Douglas was particularly hurt. He always blamed me for leaving Blackie behind."

The day after the Nicol family left the dog behind, Blackie ran away from the family's friends in Port Elizabeth. And one night last August, Blackie came home, her tail wagging happily.

"It was absolutely amazing!" Nicol said. "Douglas came running and said Blackie was outside in the street. I dashed out and there she was. Her coat was matted, she was so thin you could see all her bones sticking out, and her paws were deeply cracked."

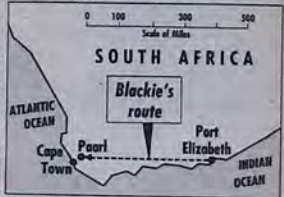

"But there was no doubt at all it was Blackie."

Blackie had also brought a surprise gift for the family. Barking excitedly, she led them to six tiny puppies she had given birth to in a nearby storm drainpipe, a quarter-mile away.

Dr. Pietie van Aarde of Paarl, a veterinarian who had inserted a steel pin in BLACKIE — back in Douglas' loving arms.

Blackie's left hind leg after an accident years ago, confirmed that it was the same dog he had operated on. "It's 100 percent certain this is the same dog," he said.

To return to Paarl from Port Elizabeth, Nicol said, the part-terrier dog had to travel through some of the densest forest in South Africa, over mountain passes and through the Klein Karoo Desert.

"That she survived is a miracle," he told The ENQUIRER.

"I can only believe that God must have had a hand in it."

You can gain respect from the people you meet by following a few simple tips, reveals psychiatrist Emery Breitner.

The first step is to stand erect and relatively still, he remarked.

"This immediately shows you're in control of yourself. Don't fidget."

When you greet someone, let the other person walk further toward you than you walk toward him, said Dr. Breitner.

"You'll be subconsciously showing the other person that you're the type who holds his ground."

As you approach someone, look squarely at him even if he doesn't look at you.

Don't let your gaze waver. "You're showing that you are sure of yourself."

Don't use gestures which subconsciously show you're afraid.

natural prostate rejuvenation

IT'S POSSIBLE TO REPAIR AND REBUILD THE PROSTATE. TO GIVE IT NEW HEALTH AND POWER. TO RENEW POTENCY AND VITALITY! AND TO DO IT IN JUST 4 TO 8 WEEKS — NATURALLY — WITHOUT SURGERY!

By Carleton Freedman, Nutritional Science Writer

Prostate disorders are often referred to as "the scourge of the Western male." They're widespread among American males, and that's why this article has such important news for all those who suffer from prostate problems — and for those who wish to prevent prostate problems from ever occurring.

It will tell you about a miraculous new product called ZN Mega-Mineral Tea, about Nutritional Life Corporation, the company that developed the tea, and about some important research on the natural relief of prostate disorders.

THE MESSAGE IS THAT THERE IS NATURAL, DIETARY HELP FOR PROSTATE SUFFERERS.

Without surgery, ZN Mega-Mineral Tea can help repair and rebuild the prostate, restore vitality and potency, help bring the prostate back to natural size, health and power. And help keep it that way in the future!

AN ANNOUNCEMENT I AM AUTHORIZED TO MAKE —

Maybe you have prostate problems yourself. Maybe a friend or a loved one has such problems. Or perhaps you just want to help make sure that you'll never develop prostate problems yourself in the future. Whatever the reason for your interest, Nutritional Life has authorized me to include the following announcement as part of the material in this article.

"We want every American who has a prostate problem to have a chance — without financial risk — to try new ZN Mega-Mineral Tea. We will send anyone interested a 30-day supply (60 generous bags) of this tea, along with our confidential report titled NATURAL PROSTATE HEALTH. If you feel our tea doesn't help you, then just send us back the amount you didn't use within 30 days. Even if it's only one tea bag. We'll refund your entire cost. But we'll let you keep our report, NATURAL PROSTATE HEALTH, in any event."

HERE'S WHY NUTRITIONAL LIFE CORP. MAKES THIS UNUSUAL OFFER —

Even though I'm a professional writer on nutritional science and nutritional research topics, this offer really surprised me. And my first reaction was this simple question:

"Why are you so sure of the prostate healing powers of ZN Mega-Mineral Tea that you're willing to make such a risk?"

HERE'S WHAT THEY TOLD ME —

Nutritional Life Corp. was ready with an answer. And it was backed by published, documented research. This is a milestone research project on prostate disorders took place at the Cook County Hospital in Chicago. It was directed by researchers of the nationally famous Center for the Study of Prostatic Diseases. It involved 725 patients who suffered from a variety of prostate problems. And it took five years to complete.

The results gave a major re-direction to conventional thinking about prostate relief. And that was because it suggested that prostate problems could best be corrected naturally — without surgery. This is what the Cook County prostate research project revealed: The elements in ZN Mega-Mineral Tea are absolutely necessary for a healthy prostate gland.

Mineral Tea — adding these elements to the diet can help restore the loss of vitality and potency caused by prostate problems — adding potent amounts of these elements to the diet helps correct prostate problems — without surgery.

NUTRITIONAL LIFE CORP.

Nutritional Life Corp. was founded by a group of dedicated researchers who feel natural foods can do much to help ailments, but they also emphasize that it's good common sense to see your doctor when prostate problems arise.

ZN MEGA-MINERAL TEA —

A number of factors were considered in developing ZN Mega-Mineral Tea. Nutritional Life Corp. knew that our modern diets are poor in nutrition. And that the Bushy study emphasized that the elements in ZN Mega-Mineral Tea helped the prostate gland rebuild and rejuvenate itself naturally — without surgery. So ZN Mega-Mineral Tea is precisely formulated to be one of the most potent sources available. And it's also a delectably delicious and refreshing cup of herbal tea. All natural ingredients, no drugs. Two relaxing cups a day, for a period of from 4 to 8 weeks are suggested. And it's a good idea for all men over 35 to drink it every day to help prevent prostate problems from arising or recurring.

ZN Mega-Mineral Tea is available only from Nutritional Life Corp., and it comes in a box of 100 tea bags. It's convenient to carry a bag with you when you're away from home for a healthy ZN refresher for your prostate gland.

You get the FREE REPORT — NATURAL PROSTATE HEALTH. And you have Nutritional Life Corp.'s no nonsense guarantee of complete satisfaction or your money back. If ZN Mega-Mineral Tea doesn't bring you the relief you want, you'll have lost nothing — but you can keep the free report, NATURAL PROSTATE HEALTH. And if ZN Mega-Mineral Tea does bring you the relief from prostate problems that it has brought to so many others, then I'm sure you'll agree that its low cost was one of the greatest values of your lifetime!

NO RISK RUSH ORDER FORM:

'Love Boat' Crew's Secret Pact

By JOHN SOUTH and RICHARD TAYLOR

In a dramatic closed-door meeting, the stars of TV's "Love Boat" hammered out a secret pact to bury past differences and keep the hit series sailing to success.

Worried about the future of the show and wanting to keep their huge salaries, the cast agreed to keep a lid on their tempers, which insiders say have flared for months over numerous disputes, including:

- Battling egos among the show's top stars.
- Poorly written scripts.
- The stars' fruitless demands for more meaty roles.
- A steady stream of what the cast considers second-rate guest stars.

Tensions on the set became so severe that "Captain" Gavin MacLeod, desperately trying to cool off his fellow cast members, seized control of the helm. He called his costars together for a private meeting just before the show went on a spring break February 20.

With costars Lauren "Julie" Tewes, Bernie "Doc" Kopell, Ted "Isaac" Lange and Fred "Gopher" Grandy seated around the set's captain's table, MacLeod put his list down and delivered a no-punches-pulled speech, say insiders. He demanded that they all act like the big, happy family viewers see on the top-10-rated show.

"Look, guys, we've been running each other down and ripping each other apart," MacLeod said, according to a longtime member of "The Love Boat" production staff, who learned all the details of the secret cast meeting.

"Let's cut out all this bitching and backbiting here and now! Nobody at this table ever made so much money in their lives — or ever will again."

"We need this show and we need each other. Let's try to act like the happy crew we're supposed to be."

"This show has given me homes in Santa Monica, Palm Springs and New York, and it's supporting my seven children. Every time I turn around, a rerun check has arrived in the mail."

"We know the standard of writing is lousy, and it's true we'd all rather have more dramatic roles in the show, but the bottom line is we make a lot of money from the show, so let's cut out all this stuff and get on with it."

There was some squabbling among the cast members during the meeting. The source said Tewes angrily charged that MacLeod is seeking to expand his role, and "trying to make this into 'The Gavin MacLeod Show!'"

But one by one, the source said, MacLeod's costars all fell into line, agreeing there was no sense in sinking the treasure ship that had made them all household names.

"The cast listened intently to Gavin," the source said. "And Bernie Kopell responded, 'Gavin's right. We've all been behaving like kids.'"

"Despite all of our problems we've got to stick together. This is a long-running show, and one of the most profitable ever on television."

"The Love Boat" has been a solid hit since the series was launched in 1977 — and is consistently in the top 10 this season.

According to another Hollywood insider, Ted Lange, who plays the ship's happy-go-lucky bartender, told the group, "I'm very appreciative of the vast amount of money I've made from this show. I've even turned down other parts because there is no way they can pay me the same kind of money."

"I must be the highest-paid bartender in the world!"

An informed industry source added, "At the end of the secret meeting the entire cast agreed to bury the hatchet, to keep the show running smoothly."

Not all the problems have been ironed out to everyone's satisfaction. Sources on the set say the cast members are still unhappy with many aspects of the show, but all have agreed to live with the bad points while reaping the benefits.

"There are ego problems, especially among Gavin, Bernie and Lauren," said an agent at a top Hollywood agency.

"They each want to be in the limelight — and have bigger parts."

"And they can't believe some of the guest stars are so incompetent. Cast members are convinced that if an actor is a personal friend of the producers, even if he's got the acting ability of a chimp, he's got the part."

The stars' long-standing complaint that their parts are too small was dramatically demonstrated when MacLeod exploded on the set shortly before the secret meeting, a cast member's friend revealed.

"I'm fed up with this!" the friend quoted MacLeod as saying. "We have only one script on which silly variations are made each week. I'm sick of smiling like an imbecile!"

"Surely the captain of this huge ship can have a dramatic scene to play now and then!"

But despite their private complaints, all members of the cast are determined to keep "The Love Boat" afloat — and on a steady course to more prosperous years on the air.

"They recognize it would be suicidal to kill the goose that has laid so many golden eggs," said the former staff member. "They've come to see 'The Love Boat' not as a cruise ship, but as a Spanish galleon full of riches."

Added another former behind-the-scenes staffer, "They're not going to lose the ship. The cast of 'The Love Boat' knows they've got a good thing."

going. The show has financially rewarded all of them very handsomely, and there's no way they're going to throw that away."

"Gavin has instilled in their minds that the show's a gold mine, and it's up to the cast and crew to make sure things run smoothly, so they can reap all the benefits the show has to offer."

There have been reports of mysterious islands which appear and disappear so rapidly that their existence cannot be confirmed with any degree of certainty.

One of the most baffling is Dougherty Island.

It has been reported in numerous positions within a wide radius.

It is the farthest island from any inhabited land in the world. No one has ever visited it because the swells are often 70 feet and the terrain is not suitable for aircraft to land.

Since 1936, the British Admiralty has sent out an aircraft charting expedition to check on some of the vanishing islands, including Dougherty. On one trip in the late '30s, Flight Lieut. Geoffrey Briggs and a pilot named Murray left from St. Helena, 1,200 miles west of Africa.

For many hours they flew over the gray wastes of the Atlantic until they came to the territory where Dougherty should have existed. Lieut. Briggs kept his eyes focused through binoculars and, suddenly, his forehead wrinkled in dark puzzlement.

Sure enough the airman had sighted the island, but the odd happenings down below were mind-shattering. To the utter amazement of the two men, the nearer they approached Dougherty Island, the less they were able to comprehend what they saw. For on approach, the island became smaller and smaller to their astonished eyes, and it looked as though the sea was swallowing it up!

Even more amazing, they now saw quite clearly a sizable number of dwarfed figures running frantically about. They were people all right, but not human beings as we know them.

Abruptly the pilot dipped the plane so that they could glide overhead at a few hundred feet. Now both men could see, without the help of binoculars, that the island was subsiding into the sea's encroaching waters. Most incredible of all was the sight of the inhabitants taking to the water as if by natural instinct.

Their bodies were characterized by enormous feet and hands, with their toes and fingers seemingly laced together by thick skin. Their legs seemed to be quite short, as were their arms and the shoulders looked remarkably heavy for their size.

Outstanding was the noticeably bulging buttocks — in contrast to an apparent average height of about four feet tall. Their skulls were massive, with sloping foreheads and very exaggerated lips. Both men and women were naked save for a loin covering, and the complexion gave the impression of being a blending of brownish-black and reddish-yellow.

Those in the center of the small island were moving about while the swallowing sea was steadily diminishing their habitat by the minute. The airman observed that the tiny figures were not only entering the water but some were disappearing beneath the billowing waves!

The airplane was not equipped with floats, but even if it had been, it would have been inadvisable to try to land on that rolling green ocean. The men, completing their mission, began the voyage back to home. They told their story before the incredulous ears of their superiors.

Could the airman have hallucinated what they had witnessed, because as far as is known, Dougherty Island has not reappeared since? Others, checking for the Admiralty, have flown over the site but have not seen the island or its inhabitants. So Dougherty Island has been altered on Admiralty maps with "E.D." meaning that its existence is doubtful.

A church group for young people was discussing the advantages and disadvantages of higher education for the entire population of the United States.

The teacher cited instances in Africa, where, after tribesmen had been taught to read and write, they felt themselves too good to do menial work. "Can you imagine," she continued, "what would happen here if everyone had a college education? Who would dig the ditches, for instance?"

"That's easy," a boy answered in all seriousness. "The government would pay people not to go to college."

Hollywood's Million Dollar Faces Share Borgnine Secret.

Beauty secrets dating back to the Aztecs that Tove Borgnine, wife of actor Ernest Borgnine discovered in Mexico are shared by top Hollywood stars—both men and women.

It's an extract from a rare cactus plant that has been formulated into a complexion soap bar, skin toner, masque and several creams.

In a recent interview, famed Hollywood tough guy Ernest Borgnine revealed how he and many of his celebrity friends stay young and healthy looking:

QUESTION: "Some men feel that putting creams or lotions on their faces makes them less masculine or less macho; how would you answer them?"

ANSWER: "Anybody wants to stand up against me?"

QUESTION: "How is it that you have the facial skin tone of a much younger man?"

ANSWER: "I've been using my wife's products for a number of years now. A combination of her TOVA 9 Cactus Masque and her creams have left my skin literally like a baby's. I don't even have to worry about getting unburned on the golf course because the QUESTION: "Who are some of your friends who use TOVA 9 products?"

ANSWER: "Red Buttons, Irwin Allen, the producer of 'Poseidon Adventure' and other marvelous films, Marty Allen and many beautiful female celebrities like Ali McGraw. All my Hollywood friends have asked me how I manage to keep looking so young. For example, Jimmy Darren and I were doing a Hollywood Squares show one day and he asked, 'How the hell do you look so young all the time?' I told him about my wife's products and he said, 'I've got to get some.' He's been using them ever since. My son, George Saway, told me one day—'I have to stay looking as young as you do and I'm getting older.' He's been using the products and now he's looking younger than me!"

QUESTION: "Do movie actors have more problems with their skin than other people?"

ANSWER: "Yes and No. Actors have makeup to remove and harsh lights to contend with but anyone who wants younger, healthier looking skin should take care of it."

Makeup can work miracles for you, but you have to use it correctly, top beauty experts say.

The ENQUIRER asked two leading beauticians, Jan Hayes-Steinert and Mark Traynor, for the most-asked beauty questions posed to them by their customers.

Here are the questions and the experts' answers:

- How can I make my lipstick or gloss last longer? "Put face powder over the lips before either one is applied," Hayes-Steinert, author of "Your Face After 30," said. "Use loose powder, and give the lips just a light dusting."
- How can I hide ugly wrinkles? Traynor, beauty consultant to Marilyn Monroe, Lauren Hutton and

Answers to Most-Asked Beauty Questions

Barbra Streisand, said, "Wrinkles or any imperfections will always be more obvious if your skin has a shine. A mat finish, achieved with translucent powder, will keep light from reflecting off those areas."

• Do the wrinkle-removing lotions work? "Only temporarily and on small lines," Traynor said. "And they don't work well if you put makeup over them. You should just use regular powder, lipstick and also blusher."

• What causes bags under my eyes and what can I do about them? "Part of the cause is heredity, and part is due to aging," Hayes-Steinert said. "But if you sleep on your stomach, or your head is not properly elevated with a pillow, you may be contributing to them."

• Most people cover the entire bag area with eye-bag erasing products and that makes them look worse. The right way is to treat only the depression, or dark line under the puff, and not the puff itself."

• What can I do about dark circles under my eyes? "In this case, you would fill the entire area with a good bag-erasing-type product," remarked Hayes-Steinert.

• How can I choose the right makeup base for my skin? "Apply some to the side of your neck, under the jawline," Traynor said. "Blend it lightly and if it disappears, it's the shade for you."

• Putting it on the back of your hand, as the saleswomen always do, doesn't work because that has no relation to your face."

• I use the same amount of makeup each day, but sometimes it seems too heavy and sometimes too light. What can I do?

• "If you're making up for daytime, don't just check yourself in the bathroom mirror. Go to the window and check under natural light," Traynor said.

• And if you make up under normal electric light but your office has fluorescent bulbs, carry a rosy-toned powdered blusher and add it after you get to the office, or you may look washed-out."

The experts said these beauty questions are also often asked:

• I get broken capillaries under my skin. What causes them?

• They come from manipulating the skin too much, or being too harsh with it," Hayes-Steinert revealed. "Some women handle their faces just like clay."

• The capillaries are very close to the surface, so they break under such harsh treatment."

• My complexion is often ruddy. What causes that? "Surprisingly, the answer is spicy food," Hayes-Steinert said.

• Does candlelight make me look as good as it makes me feel?

• "Just make sure the light isn't coming from directly under your face," Traynor warned. "It can really distort your makeup."

Softhearted Frank Sinatra, in a touching display of compassion and warm generosity, is paying all the medical bills for a cancer-stricken Big Band singer he hardly knows, Bob Eberly.

At Sinatra's insistence, Eberly, who was bandleader Jimmy Dorsey's vocalist in the '40s, was admitted to one of the world's top cancer treatment hospitals, Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center in New York.

Eberly, 64, said he "choked up" when Ol' Blue Eyes called him and told him he was picking up the tab for all his hospital expenses.

"He told me he was praying for me," said Eberly from his hospital bed.

was all taken care of. I couldn't believe it.

"I'm not very well off. I have a little medical insurance, but not enough for a thing like this," said Eberly, obviously still very moved by Sinatra's warmheartedness.

"I was overcome. I choked up. Even as I talk to you I feel a lump in my throat. When someone like Frank Sinatra remembers 40 years, remembers someone like me, it's a very emotional thing."

"He's a prince... a real fine guy," he added softly. Sinatra's kindness particularly stunned Eberly because, Bob said, the two singers barely knew each other.

"We were contemporaries on the Big Band scene in the 1930s and '40s," recalled Eberly, famous for his renditions of "Tangerine" and "Maria Elena." "But until his phone call I don't think I had exchanged more than 10 words with him."

"That's why his caring and thoughtfulness about me is so fantastic. I'm proud to know there are people like Frank Sinatra around."

Eberly's cancerous right lung was removed last July. In February he was at Man-hasset Medical Center Hospital on Long Island, when his doctor received Sinatra's call. "He was very concerned about Bob Eberly," said Dr. Melvin Klein, chief of internal medicine at Manhasset Hospital. "Sinatra came across as a warm, concerned individual, anxious to do everything in his power to help an old contemporary of his."

After he was transferred to Sloan-Kettering, Eberly said, he received a bouquet of flowers from Sinatra, with a card that read: "My thoughts and prayers are with you always, my friend — Francis Albert."

How to Change Your Luck — And Change Your Life!

Winning — at work, at play, at love — is mostly a matter of timing. If you knew when to change your job, invest your money, place a bet, start a new romance... you could dramatically shift the odds for success in your favor. The fact is, there are certain days when you're at your physical, emotional and mental peak... when almost everything you do turns out right... when almost everything you touch turns to gold!

And it's NO Accident! There's strong evidence (thousands have proved it) that your three Biorhythm Cycles determine when you're at your best. These cycles began the day you were born and continue to rise and fall throughout your entire life. They govern your physical (and romantic) energy, your emotional state, your mental sharpness. They tell you exactly when the odds for success are greatest... when you're most likely to win at anything you try.

• Your Mental Cycle pinpoints your lucky days — the best times to enter drawings and lotteries, play cards or bingo, try any game of chance.

• Your Physical Cycle spots your high-energy days — the best times for all-out physical performance on your job... in your romantic relationships.

• Your Emotional Cycle highlights your romantic days — the best times for love, new relationships, all-round happiness. What's more, there are certain days when two or more of your Cycles are on High at the same time. These are the days when you're at your absolute best — when everything you try has the greatest chance for success. But you must know when they're going to happen in order to cash in.

Prove it — at NO RISK! Now you can have your personal BIORHYTHM CHART — a day-by-day picture of your three Biorhythm Cycles for the coming year. DOES 60 lbs. OF TOMATOES FROM ONE YIELD SOUND INCREDIBLE? NOT IF YOU OWN THE Amazing TREE TOMATO

(Cypripedium betaceus)

GROWS INDOORS OR OUTDOORS... YOU PICK BASKET AFTER BASKET OF RIPE, TASTY TOMATOES... ONE BUMPER CROP AFTER ANOTHER... 5 TO 7 MONTHS A YEAR... YEAR AFTER YEAR!

W4 Get Lush! Read what Leo F. Schab, Mendocino, Wis., has to say: "Just a line to let you know the Tree Tomato is doing great... she said 50 lb. full, you said leave 'em 12"... mine are 15 and 16". It's just beautiful!"

W. A. Fletcher, Head Clerk of Agriculture of the New Zealand Dept. of Agriculture says:

"Ripening in New Zealand from late April to early November, the tree tomato has a very long fruiting season. Its wide range of culinary uses make it a valuable winter and spring fruit... a welcome addition to the menu."

"Although introduced into New Zealand many years ago, it is only in recent years that the tree tomato has become better known for its many uses. It is now much sought after, and its popularity is indicated by the high price realized for it on local markets... Under suitable conditions the plant will produce from 40 to 60 lbs. of fruit annually."

From the New Zealand Dept. of Agriculture comes the biggest garden sensation of the century... THE PERENNIAL TOMATO!

The TREE TOMATO — a remarkable new horticultural concept... unlike anything you've ever seen before! NOT a vine... NOT a regular tomato plant that withers and dies after one summer... the TREE TOMATO is a living, growing tree that BEARS FRUIT SEASON AFTER SEASON... YEAR AFTER YEAR!

Why settle for garden-fresh tomatoes a few short weeks of the year? Why not live with delicious tomatoes all year long like the rest of the world? Not when you can pick crop after crop of red, plum, juicy TREE TOMATOES (up to 7 months a year all year round when grown indoors)!

SAVE AFTER WAIVE OF SUCCESSFUL TREE TOMATOES GROW AS QUICK AS YOU CAN PICK 'EM!

Your TREE TOMATO will arrive already leafed-out... in full, green, hardy vigor! When ready to bear, the branches will literally drop with huge clusters of delicious TREE TOMATOES, hundreds upon hundreds... and, as one crop is harvested, another rushes forth to take its place... virtually constant supply of luscious TREE TOMATOES!

CAN BE GROWN INDOORS FOR YEARS... GROWN TOMATO HARVEST!

HOW IT OUTDOORS AS A TREE — INDOORS AS A HOUSEPLANT!

The TREE TOMATO will thrive marvelously — indoors or out! If you live in a temperate zone, plant it outdoors and enjoy its bountiful, exotic beauty in your garden. Or, sub-grow the TREE TOMATO, bring it indoors for winter, and surprise your family and friends with ripe, just-picked tomatoes even during the coldest months of the year! Or, cultivate the TREE TOMATO as a house-plant anytime... anywhere! The TREE TOMATO will achieve heights of up to 4 ft. outdoors, but it can be trimmed and trained to any size or shape you wish!

CHOOSE TREE TOMATOES SO MANY DELICIOUS WAYS!

We think TREE TOMATOES are much tastier than ordinary tomatoes... it's hard to find a milder, firmer, more bursting-with-goodness taste treat! Rich in Vitamin C, TREE TOMATOES are fabulous in salads, sandwiches and are absolutely fantastic just picked up and popped in your mouth!

Nothing beats fresh produce, so why continue to pay high supermarket prices for inferior tomatoes, when you can grow your own TREE TOMATOES? REMEMBER, TODAY! Full growing instructions included.

LAKELAND'S DOUBLE GUARANTEE

All plants must arrive in perfect condition. If you are not totally satisfied with any order, return within 10 days for a prompt replacement or refund of purchase price. And all plants must arrive after planting, or return anytime within 3 months for prompt replacement — no questions asked!

After 33 Years ... Leading Black Judge Favors Death Penalty

Following 33 years of openly opposing the death penalty, one of America's leading black judges has changed his mind.

"After much soul-searching, I have the abiding feeling that capital punishment does deter crime," said Justice Oscar Adams, the first black ever appointed to Alabama's Supreme Court.

In a statement defending Alabama's death penalty, 36-year-old Justice Adams revealed that he has "come 180 degrees in my thinking" since the early 1970s, when he was a civil rights lawyer.

"I believe that it deters enough crime that it should not be withheld from the arsenal of weapons of a civilized society to combat crime," he stated.

Asthma! A wheezing, coughing attack that leaves the victim fighting for breath.

Nine million Americans suffer from it and nearly 2,000 die every year.

Authorities say as many as 30,000 people a day stay home from work because of asthma, at a cost of billions.

To learn the latest that science knows about asthma, The ENQUIRER talked to top doctors specializing in the problem. What follows is a rundown on who gets asthma, what causes it, what is being done about it.

The Disease

Asthma obstructs the air passages to the lungs, making it difficult for the sufferer to draw a breath.

But asthma is also "reversible," meaning that it comes and goes in cycles. Usually the patient appears completely healthy, but sometimes the air passages suddenly get so small the victim can barely take a breath. After an attack, the passages return to their proper size and breathing goes back to normal, said Dr. Robert Strunk.

The airways are obstructed in three ways, said Dr. Michael Kaliner, head of the Allergic Diseases Section

Racers Have a Handle on Thrills

In the action-packed sport of bicycle motocross racing, there are all kinds of ways to miss a jump and take a spectacular spill, as these exciting photos show. Kirk Claveau hangs tight in the saddle, trying to regain control of his bike in what appears to be a losing cause (left), on a track in Arlington, Calif. Steve Malaguti assumes frog-like position (below) as he goes airborne after zooming up a dirt ramp on a motocross track near Green Pond, N.J. Stu Thomsen's foot slipped off the pedal and his bike flipped skyward (right) as he sped through a race course in Garden Grove, Calif. In motocross racing, bikers use their own muscles and pedal power to whip through on 850-foot winding course crammed with thrilling jumps and tough turns.

ASTHMA! What Causes It, Who Gets It—& The Treatments of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases in Washington.

The airways can swell, making passages narrower; the muscles that circle the airways can constrict, making the airways tighter, and excessive mucous secretion builds up in the airways, also cutting down on the flow of air.

Who Gets It

No one is immune, at any age. "Some children have their first asthma attack at 3 or 4 months of age," said Dr. Strunk.

Added Dr. Kaliner: "Seventy percent of asthmatic patients have their disease by the time they're 30, but we see asthma developing for the first time in people in their 50s, 60s and 70s."

What Triggers Attacks

Dr. Strunk said the five most common causes of an attack are infection, exercise, allergies, irritants (such as cigarette smoke, air pollution and strong odors) and emotions (laughing, crying, temper tantrums ... all of which are associated with increased air movement in the airways).

"Some women say that during their menstrual period their asthma is worse. We don't know exactly why, but there is a definite pattern," said Dr. Sheldon Spector, senior staff physician at the National Jewish Hospital/National Asthma Center in Denver.

Duration

"Asthma attacks vary in length and depend on what precipitates them," said Dr. Strunk.

"A person can be totally well, walk into a room where there is a cat and start to wheeze."

"If the person then walks out of the room and takes some medication, the attack could be gone in a very short time."

Said Dr. Kaliner:

"When asthmatics are sick enough to have to go to the emergency room for help, it usually takes two or three days to get their body back to normal."

Cure

"We don't promise cures," said Dr. Kaliner, adding that even if an asthmatic hasn't had an attack in 10 years, it doesn't mean he or she is cured.

"The asthma is there. It is dormant."

"At one time we thought children outgrew asthma. But now we know they never do. Something triggers it in an adult and the attacks start all over again."

Treatments

First of all, asthma sufferers should remove anything that may trigger an attack, said Dr. Strunk, director of clinical services, pediatrics, at the Denver asthma center.

"You can eliminate pets from the household. Adults may have to stop smoking."

Also eliminate things that promote mold, such as dampness in basements.

Various drugs and allergy shots are used to treat asthma, and it is also advisable to drink a lot of fluids since fluids thin mucous secretions.

"Some exciting things have happened in the treatment of asthma," said Dr. Spector. "There has been a rediscovery of some old things. Many of the medications are given in pill form but asthmatic patients also use inhalers."

Said Dr. Kaliner: "The most recent treatment is the preparation of inhaled steroids that are not absorbed into the body."

"Some of these are deposited only in the lungs and work in the airways of the lungs. They don't cause any side effects."

"In the last 10 years the capacity to treat asthma has improved dramatically."

"We understand much more than we ever did and specialists are able to treat asthmatics more effectively than ever before."

"We are getting better drugs and a better understanding of what triggers the disease. The future looks very promising."

Gina Lollobrigida's a Dazzler in 106 Gown

Gina Lollobrigida dazzled guests at a New York party when she showed up in this eye-popping, handmade, gold-sequined evening gown that cost her a whopping $10,000. The 52-year-old Italian actress was attending a party marking the opening of the show "Sophisticated Ladies."

Success Wrecks Marriage of '3's Company' Costar

By CHERIE HART

Seems it's spiltville for "Three's Company" costar Richard Kline and his cute actress wife Kathleen Doyle — even though pals say he's still desperately in love with her.

Friends blame the breakup on the couple's separate careers. Both are doing great in show biz... but their hectic schedules are wrecking their marriage.

And that's why Kline, who plays the lecherous neighbor Larry on the show, finally decided to move out. But the split upset him so much he had to take a week off from

"Three's Company" to recover, reveal insiders.

"Richard is still madly in love with Kathleen, and the last thing he wants is a divorce," confided a friend of the actor.

"He loves her enough to separate for a while. They both want time to think about their marital difficulties.

"They don't want to throw in the towel just yet and let their marriage go down the drain.

"They have talked to friends about divorce, but they're willing to give this separation a chance."

Kline has been married to Kathleen for five years. But it wasn't until he hit it big on TV and Kathleen started landing juicy stage roles that trouble erupted, say insiders.

"Kathleen used to come to every taping of 'Three's Company,' and she and Richard bought and furnished a house in Los Angeles," noted the friend. "But then Kathleen's work started taking her back east... and she rarely came back to California. Both talk about the possibility of divorce, but they're still in love with each other.

"Richard knew the only chance he had to save his marriage was to separate.

"He was so rattled about it that he asked people at 'Three's Company' to give him a week off from taping. He flew to Puerto Vallarta, Mexico, all by himself, just to mend his broken heart."

Commented a mutual friend of the couple:

"This is another sad case where success has ruined a marriage."

Pregnant Pause?

Quite a few years ago, shortly after moving to a new town, I remembered that it was time for my third polo shot. My wife suggested that I go to her obstetrician. At first I balked at the idea, but not knowing any other doctors in the community, I broke down and made an appointment for the inoculation.

On the morning of my appointment I carefully took a seat in a corner of the waiting room, trying to appear inconspicuous among the women in maternity clothes.

A moment later the nurse entered, saying, "Good morning, Mr. LaMance. The doctor will be right with you. By the way, we must know for our records. Will this be your second or third?"

How to Make Vegetables Tempting & Tasty

"Vegetables? No thanks — pass the catsup." For the homemaker who has heard this from her family too many times — and scraped vitamin-packed vegetables into the garbage pail — there's help from Dr. Lawrence E. Lamb, noted physician, food expert and writer.

By GEORGE HUNTER

Dr. Lamb, the author of "What You Need to Know About Food and Cooking for Health," has this advice for ENQUIRER readers:

"It's easy to make vegetables more tempting and tasty. The secret is to use a little imagination in preparing them.

"For example, when you're cooking vegetables in water, drop in a bouillon cube or two. You'll find the flavor improved noticeably.

"Want your family to enjoy such vegetables as sliced cucumber and eggplant? Dip them in nonfat milk, then in flour and pan-broil them. The taste is delicious.

"If your family finds corn bland, try a pinch of curry powder. It makes a difference.

"Many people won't eat broccoli without a cheese sauce. This defeats the purpose of eating vegetables because it adds fat and calories instead. Try a low-fat cheese sauce by using uncreamed cottage cheese mixed in a white sauce made with nonfat milk powder.

"For heightened flavor, add a bit of Tabasco, minced onion, dry mustard or paprika to the sauce. This sauce is excellent on many other vegetables, too.

"Keep the color in white vegetables such as cauliflower and red vegetables such as beets by adding a drop or two of white vinegar or lemon juice to the cooking water. It will add flavor, too.

"If your family insists on adding sour cream or butter to peas and potatoes, serve them with Worcestershire sauce instead. You may get delighted smiles while you keep down the calorie and cholesterol level. All vegetables are free of cholesterol.

"Boil vegetables in very little water and don't overcook them. Apply a lot of heat at first to prevent the loss of vitamins that occurs during slower cooking. After the first high heat, simmer the vegetables to tenderness.

"Steaming them in a colander or strainer over boiling water is a good way to cook them healthfully.

"And try serving more vegetables raw to keep the vitamin content at a maximum.

"Most people don't eat enough vegetables because they just don't like their taste. The way to change that is in the kitchen."

Top Astrologer's View of People Born Under the Sign of Taurus

Leading astrologer Carroll Righter, who's been casting horoscopes for glittering Hollywood stars since 1939, has published several books on the zodiac and reaches millions of people through his daily newspaper horoscope columns.

In this installment of a 12-part series written exclusively for The ENQUIRER, Righter takes an in-depth look at the personalities of ENQUIRER readers born between April 20 and May 20 under the sign of Taurus the Bull.

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Love of money — and an amazing ability to make it — are typical traits of people born under the sign of Taurus the Bull.

And you Taureans are also hardworking individualists who never are satisfied with being second-rate and you're always striving to be the best.

Persistence and a strong sense of purpose are key Taurean characteristics.

And they're certainly present in the personalities of two of TV's top newsmen, Mike Wallace and Tom Snyder — both born under the sign of Taurus.

You Taureans are not only adept at making money — you've developed a knack for living well while clinging to as much of your money as you can. This trait is exemplified in stars like Henry Fonda, James Stewart and Glenn Ford, who've amassed fortunes but spent it wisely while living in opulent homes.

You Taurean men always seem to fall in love with beautiful women, too.

One of Hollywood's most attractive actresses — Farrah Fawcett — was married to one Taurean, Lee Majors, and has had a romance with another, Ryan O'Neal. Both of Taurean Bing Crosby's wives also were beautiful women.

If you were born under the sign of Taurus you tend to cling to your mate. If strong and personal relationships are shattered, you suffer a far and extremely confidential.

You like to have friends who will love you and do just about anything for you. The slightest hint of insincerity in any of them will prompt you to reevaluate the friendship.

For your mate, you prefer a person with exciting talent and great career potential.

You're bored with people who don't share your dynamic, go-getter attitude toward life. You have no interest at all in anyone who constantly feels sorry for himself.

You love money — and will never be short of cash because when your bankroll gets low, you'll find a project that brings the dollars rolling back in.

Your favorite color for clothing is powder blue. For backgrounds you like desert green.

The Taurean Man

RICH AND FAMOUS Henry Fonda lives well and knows how to manage his money — a definite Taurean trait.

heavier blow than people born under other signs.

Taureans have real strong minds and very rarely will change their opinions. However, you Taurean men reach decisions only after slowly weighing all alternatives — while Taurean women leap to a conclusion and stick to it.

Other stars who share your great Taurean personality are: Ann-Margret, Candice Bergen, Herve Villechaise, Valerie Bertinelli, Fred Astaire, Anthony Quinn and Shirley MacLaine.

Your Likes And Dislikes

You hate to be alone — but at the same time, you deliberately try your best to keep your circle of friends small

Security is very important to you. You feel most secure when you're home with your family, and you're very possessive of your home.

For this reason, you don't like throwing the big parties where everyone is invited; you're more inclined to have small, intimate dinner parties attended by only a handful of close friends.

You're a demanding husband who insists that your wife handle the household and family affairs. But in return you reward her with loads of love and emotional support.

You prefer to reason with your children rather than physically punish them. You insist on treating them in a mature manner.

You excel at jobs that require close attention and careful reasoning. Architecture, banking and law are TYPICAL TAUREAN Lee Majors and his former wife Farrah Fawcett. He shows the Taurean's knack for marrying exceptionally beautiful women.

Your Prospects For the Near Future fields in which you would be outstanding.

You don't like to travel, and you prefer sports that require little exertion such as fishing and golf. You dress conservatively and are a hearty eater.

The birth signs of others you can best depend on:

For business: Libra, Sagittarius.

For advice: Capricorn, Pisces.

For friendship: Scorpio and Capricorn.

For love: Virgo, Capricorn.

The Taurean Woman

You expect your man to be financially well off, or at least in a career that will bring rich rewards before long.

And you won't let anything stand between you and something you truly want.

And once you make up your mind you want it, you'll take the fastest possible route to get it.

You're very possessive — and you demand that your mate adapt his life-style to fit yours rather than vice versa.

You become very enthusiastic about even the small projects.

Set your mind to it and you could be a highly successful career woman — with selling as your best field.

Your self-confidence and your go-getter personality also would make you a hit in the acting world.

You dress conservatively, but with elegance.

And the birth signs of others you can best depend on are:

For business: Virgo, Scorpio, Aquarius.

For advice: Gemini, Sagittarius.

For friendship: Cancer and Virgo.

For love: Cancer, Scorpio.

Prospects for Taurus Children Born in 1981

Children born under the sign of Taurus this year will possess great artistic talent.

Parents should encourage these natural instincts from an early age to insure maximum use is made of them.

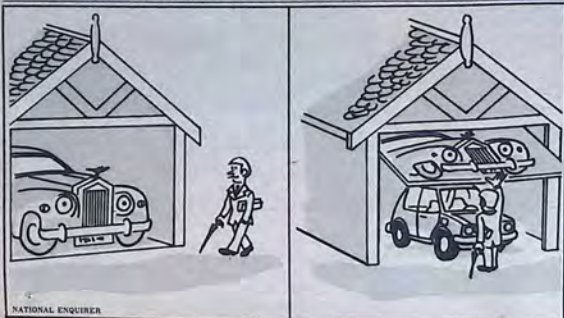

These children also will develop a fine natural ability to handle problems in their lives, and parents should treat them in a mature fashion to encourage this expertise at problem solving.

Philosophy will be an attractive field of study for children born under this sign. And unlike most Taureans, they'll enjoy travel for its own sake.

Cocktail party: A place where they spear olives and stab friends.

Dream Costs Buddy Ebsen $1 Million

Buddy Ebsen's lifelong dream of reviving an inspiring play he saw as a teenager has cost him a whopping $1 million.

He lost the bundle producing "Turn to the Right," which flopped in Beverly Hills in March.

Even a boost from President Reagan couldn't save the play, according to Buddy.

He said he saw "Turn to the Right" in a tent production when he was 18 years old in Orlando, Fla.

"I never stopped thinking about that play, the warmth, the goodness of it. I thought of it all these years," said the lanky 73-year-old star of TV's "Barnaby Jones."

"It was a dream of mine to see it again — and the only way I could see it again was to buy it and produce it myself."

But the play, a musical, bombed so badly that Buddy had to close it after only two weeks. He lost $1 million, according to the Hollywood trade paper Variety.

"I had to close it," said Buddy, "because I didn't want to wind up like Chrysler Corp."

SCENE from play "Turn to the Right," which folded after two weeks.

Before the production folded, Buddy talked to his old friend Ronald Reagan. Buddy said the President called a drama critic at a West Coast newspaper "to ask him to help the show — but even that didn't keep it from folding."

And yet, despite his whopping losses, Buddy is not sorry he tried to resurrect the play. It's about a turn-of-the-century family, a wholesome story about right winning over wrong.

"I felt I had to put this play on," said Buddy. "I think the world today can use happy, innocent plays. The world can use better ideas than plays and movies today that are about warehouses and people who kill."

"When I saw this play as a boy it made me feel the world was a great place, and I was lucky to be in it."

"I put two years into this play. It was a compulsion. I just had to do it."

$1 MILLION LOSS has not changed Ebsen's love for play.

had to strike a blow for what I believe. "And I believe as sure as there is a God in heaven that there's a life for this show — and I'm going to put it on again someday."

Will Someone Give Joe the Love & Support He Needs?

More than 100,000 special children in America have never felt the love, warmth and security of a permanent family. Their parents gave them up for adoption. But they haven't been adopted. And it's all because they are very special. They're children with mental, physical or emotional problems and all are still waiting for a family to call their very own. Here is another touching story of a special child who needs a home and family full of love.

By HILLARY HAMPSON

Eleven-year-old Joe is just learning to walk.

It's only been a matter of a few small steps so far. But for Joe, that's pretty exciting.

His adoption worker is convinced that if Joe has the help, support and security of a permanent family of his own, those first few steps could lead to a new and better life.

"When Joe was released for adoption and brought into foster care at the age of 2, he was more like a 3-month-old child," said his adoption worker.

"His mother had refused to feed him anything but milk. Joe suffered from malnutrition and had been hospitalized three times. He had not developed any motor skills and was diagnosed as a spastic quadriplegic."

Joe's mental development was also delayed and doctors later diagnosed that he suffers from cerebral palsy.

He attends a special school for handicapped and receives physical therapy at a cerebral palsy treatment center.

He underwent surgery on his legs and he may need another operation on his ankle tendons which have atrophied.

"Six months ago, he couldn't even sit alone without help and doctors said he would never walk. But now he's learning to walk although his legs start to cross and they're real stiff. For a while he was even scared when-ever he tried to take a step."

Joe, who has feeling in his legs, can get around on the floor without his wheelchair and is otherwise in good health. He can feed himself, drink through a straw and is toilet-trained.

"He's a personable, cheerful, good-looking child who loves music and has a keen memory for names, faces and dates. He can carry on a conversation and he uses complete sentences. Although he can't sit down and read a newspaper, he can identify some words.

MOTIVATED, Joe needs a family to call his own.

"I believe if someone adopted him and was stern and fair with him, he could learn to walk and do more for himself. An adoptive family should set goals for him — there's plenty of potential in him."

"Joe himself is highly motivated. If he can find an adoptive family who is also highly motivated, there's no telling how far Joe could progress."

God Sent Me on An Amazing Journey to Receive A Special Message — And to Bring You A Wonderful Gift...

the cross of ANTRON

"I am an ordained minister of The Knight Federation Church. The story of my amazing experience and how it led me to the Cross of Antron follows..."

MY NAME IS LYDIA STALNAKER

and because my story may sound too fantastic to be believed at first hearing, I want you to know the following facts.

My story has been thoroughly checked and verified by numerous scientific organizations and by several prominent scientists, including professors at the University of North Florida and the University of California at Berkeley. Dr. James Harder, Director of Research at the prestigious Aerial Phenomena Research Organization and a member of a nationally known Blue Ribbon UFO Panel has said publicly that my story is true beyond a reasonable doubt."

Articles about what has happened to me have appeared in national and international newspapers and magazines. I have been interviewed on international and national television shows. I have appeared on David Noyd's TV interview and numerous radio shows, including CBS Mystery Theater. I have lectured at such major universities as Boston University and the North Florida University.

The reason I am giving you this detailed background is that I want you to give serious consideration to my story. For, you believe my message — and if you accept the remarkable gift I have for you — your life will never be the same again.

I HAVE MET PEOPLE FROM ANOTHER GALAXY — so I know, from first-hand experience that man is not alone in the universe. My meeting took place one evening in Jacksonville, Florida in August of 1974. I was kidnapped and taken aboard an Alien Spacecraft from another galaxy, where the Aliens gave me "A MESSAGE FROM GOD" to deliver to the people of this world. They also told me I would receive "SEVEN POWERS FROM GOD". I am to use these powers to help mankind and to demonstrate His power so others may believe. I have been using these powers for GOD'S GLORY and His work.

Even now, there is a book being readied about my experience, filled with facts and proof, including a lie-detector test and many other tests given me by doctors and scientists. The book will be called "The Antron Transplant" and it is to be published soon.

"Experts say my story is true beyond a reasonable doubt."

THE MESSAGE OF ANTRON

Aboard the spacecraft there was a woman named Antron, who told me they came from a green planet, located in another galaxy. And that she is thousands of years old. But the really important thing Antron told me is that all people in the universe, whatever their origins, know God and His Powers.

I HAVE RECEIVED THE GIFT OF HEALING

I was given the gift of healing. And since this happened, many of my healings have been carefully documented. When I was aboard the craft with Antron, I saw a strange insignia that was their "Symbol of Life". Antron inspired me to design this Symbol on a cross, so that Earth people could receive its benefits. Also, I was told to wear this cross as a point of contact for God's Blessings and "Infinite Power" in my life.

On the cross, eight adjacent pyramids are connected by four single pyramids. And, at the center of the cross, appears the galactic symbol of the Universal Life Force. It is a bio-magnetic energy — just as the universal life force flashes out of my hand when I am engaged in the process of healing others. (see illustration at right for more details on this.)

ANTRON HAS GIVEN ME A MISSION —

Antron says that those on the Spacecraft had come because our world is going through a period of declining faith, and they were sent here to spread the word about life in other galaxies — and about the universal power of faith and of God. They have given me an instrument to spread the word; and that instrument is — THE CROSS OF ANTRON!

"The cross was designed by Antron — and the Universal Life Force surges out from it in powerful waves of energy!"

ANTRON'S GIFT TO THE PEOPLE OF EARTH

Antron's gift to prove their prophecies is this remarkable cross. And they stated that wonderful things will happen to those who wear it, for they will share in its tremendous life force energy.

I make the cross available to help spread Antron's message of hope to the people of earth. And whatever money I have left, after paying my expenses for this activity, will go for this purpose.

But the power of the Cross of Antron is really a wonderful gift, and if Antron were not willing to share it, no amount of money on earth could buy it.

WHAT DO YOU WANT? —

Are you ill — or is a friend or member of your family sick? Wear the Cross of Antron. And please write and tell me if your prayers are answered for relief in illness and of any blessings of healing.

Do you need any money because you are desperate and in debt? Do you need money to buy your family the necessities of life and to provide them a car and a secure home? Wear the Cross of Antron and let its life force reinforce yours. And please write and tell me if your prayers are answered and if the here is my proof...

"The powers of this amazing cross are a gift from God, who has made all things. Through Antron, a being from another Galaxy, it has now been brought to us, the people of Earth."

Here is why I believe the Cross of Antron has such amazing powers. It is a bio-magnetic cross, which means it is surrounded by a surging force field. Antron calls this the Universal Life Force. At the right is a simulation of an actual Kirilpan photograph (a special photography process discovered by para-psychologists in Russia) taken of my own hand during the process of healing. As you can see, the universal life force leaps out of my hand in flashes of energy, just as it leaps out of the Cross of Antron.

Topless Movie Scenes Shame 'Vega$' Star

Stunning Phyllis Davis of TV's "Vegas" regrets appearing topless in two "horrible films" she made years ago, but adds she'd do it again for a "quality" flick.

"I'm very sorry I did those two earlier films," she said. "My scenes were vulgar because the movies were so bad."

"It was back in the early '70s that I received an offer to do a lead in a picture, 'Sweet Sugar,' being filmed in Costa Rica. I had been in Hollywood only a short time, and was thrilled to get a lead role."

Solitary Soul

She sits there waiting patiently And wipes away a tear, Wishing that a visitor Would suddenly appear.

Someone to say, "How are you?" And greet her with a smile. . . . Someone to sit beside her And chat a little while.

It's hard for her to understand Just what she's doing there. What happened to her family And friends who used to care?

How come she's been abandoned Like some old worn-out shoe? What crime has she committed? What bad thing did she do?

True, she has a bed to sleep in And she's sheltered from the rain, But there's precious little else To ease her loneliness and pain.

She's only one of many In an oldster's home today Who finds the price for longer life Is much too high to pay.

How Airlines Are Losing Weight

Airlines are trimming back the weight of everything from pillows to carpets on big jets to save fuel, according to the U.S. Dept. of Energy.

For example, TWA estimates a $343,000 annual savings in fuel costs simply by reducing the weight of its planes by a single magazine per seat.

More jets are also likely to start appearing without paint on their skins. On a 747, the paint weighs nearly 700 pounds and increases the fuel bill.

were photographed, but I didn't want full frontal nudity. I don't think it looks pretty."

"They told me they were shooting from the waist up, but then tried to pull a fast one and shoot all of me."

"I hired a lawyer and got them to apologize — and the full nudity never appeared in the film. But it was an awful, horrible movie."

"Later, in California, I played the lead in another film, 'Terminal Island.' An unknown young actor named Tom Selleck, who's now the star of 'Magnum, P.I.' on TV, was also in the movie."

"For one scene I swam nude in a lake and then walked out of the water. As I came out, I grabbed a towel, covering myself from the waist down. Nobody shot me at the moment when I was nude — or so I thought. "I was terribly shocked when I found that someone on the set sneaked a shot of me that second I was standing nude — and sold it to some magazines. I was very upset. The photo has been a source of embarrassment and aggravation to me to this very day."

"But now I'm in a stronger position in my career than when I did those two horrible films. I can pick and choose."

"I would still not appear completely nude for a film, but I would expose myself from the waist up if it was a legitimate part of the story."

"I would make sure, though, that it was a very high-class film and a very good quality script."

Taxpayers Get Snared!

More than $71,000 of your hard-earned tax money will finance a study on how Filipino women can hunt game and still raise children.

The federal government's National Science Foundation (NSF) is giving the grant to university researchers who plan to observe all of the tribal women who hunt wild pig and deer with bows and arrows.

"This act is an outrageous abuse of tax dollars," declared U.S. Rep. John Breaux (D-La.).

"To spend over $70,000 to study why some women in the Philippines can raise children as well as hunt large forest game just adds to the public's mistrust of government."

In their NSF grant request, the researchers — using high-brow university gobbledegook — said, "Our methodology to explore how women . . . both hunt and also raise children entails ecological or energy flow analysis and also demographic-fertility studies."

And the NSF approved the grant, saying it's rare for tribal women to hunt. The NSF added that the research "should provide important insights into the nature of the

Housewife in Ohio accidentally invents a delicious bread that helps you lose weight fast (Canton, Ohio) A housewife in Ohio has possibly invented one of the most powerful weight loss products ever. It is a delicious bread that has amazing abilities to satisfy appetite, hunger and cravings for sweets.

Nancy Sperry of Canton, Ohio accidentally invented the bread while trying to duplicate an ancient bread recipe. This bread recipe is a main food staple for one of the world's three civilizations where people live the longest. This famous civilization, the Hunzas, is located in the Himalayan Mountains.

The bread recipe may have had its origin in Biblical times, because key ingredients are mentioned in Biblical passages. The origin of the Hunza civilization is originally from the armies of Alexander the Great.

The bread is now called Nancy's Special Formula™ Bread. Scientific tests have shown that only a 175 calorie serving of this special bread satisfies appetite, hunger and cravings for sweets for an average of 5½ hours.

Many people now using the bread report dramatic weight loss with little or no discomfort in losing the weight. Many lifetime dieters say that the bread is the only product that ever helped them lose weight. The bread is said to be the most pleasant and safest way to lose weight, and, it is the only product that helps you keep the weight off permanently.

The confidential recipe for Nancy's Special Formula™ Bread is contained in a small special report which also contains details of the origin of the bread, and prepared programs on how to best use the bread to lose weight fast.

This report is available for only $4.95 which includes order processing, postage and handling. This report carries a full money back guarantee. If you are not completely satisfied you will get a complete refund.

To order Nancy's Special Formula™ Bread recipe report: 1) Get a blank piece of paper. 2) At the top of the paper print the words, "Nancy's Special Formula™ Bread Recipe Report." 3) Print your name and address. 4) Mail this along with cash, check or money order for $4.95. 6 Psychics Amazingly Predicted Reagan Assassination Attempt

With chilling accuracy, six psychics predicted the March 30 assassination attempt on President Ronald Reagan.

"This was the most heartbreaking prediction I've ever made," said psychic Lou Wright. "I desperately wish I had been wrong. But thank God the President is all right."

Among the psychics' amazing predictions:

• Noreen Renier said Reagan would be shot "in the upper left chest area" but would recover.

• Eugenia Macer-Story correctly predicted Reagan would be shot outside a Washington, D.C., hotel, and that the gunman would be from a wealthy family.

• John Monti said Reagan would be shot on the left side — and that others would be shot too.

• Betty Comes accurately predicted the shooting suspect would have light hair.

• Kebrina Kinkade predicted the attack would happen within the first 90 days of Reagan's term. It happened after 70.

• Wright said that Reagan would be attacked, but not killed.

The President's brush with death was predicted with astonishing accuracy by Virginia psychic Noreen Renier.

She foresaw not only that he would be shot in March, but that the bullet would hit in the left chest area and that he would completely recover from the attack.

On a startling broadcast last November 5 over radio station WXAM in Charlottesville, Va., she told listeners:

"I keep feeling problems in his chest. It is not a natural problem — perhaps it may come from the outside... I feel it may happen in a 4-month period."

The program's host, Josh Cohen, told THE ENQUIRER: "After the show, she told me that she felt he was going to be shot in March, but she didn't want to say it on the air."

The psychic explained, "I had to tell them before he was elected President that he was going to be shot."

But then in January she returned to the station and made a stunning on-the-air prediction.

"She said the President would be shot in the upper left chest area and would survive it," recalled WXAM news director Elliott Wiser.

Again, on March 10 — just days before the attempt on Reagan's life — the amazing psychic told a Canadian newspaper:

"President Reagan will be shot, but not killed, in the upper left chest area."

Another psychic — Eugenia Macer-Story of Hoboken, N.J. — foresaw the shooting with stunning accuracy in January.

She immediately filed her prediction with The Mobius Group, a leading parapsychology research organization.

"Although her prediction was made days before Reagan was inaugurated, she was able to pinpoint the weapon, the description of the shooting site, even details of the assailant, including aspects of his family life," said Brande Crespi, a director of The Mobius Group.

In an exclusive ENQUIRER interview, Macer-Story recalled she had felt danger for Reagan since a few days before he was elected.

"Then, before he was inaugurated, I sensed more details. I saw Reagan walking out of a Washington hotel, in an area with brownstone houses. I saw he would be the target of an assailant who carried a handgun, and the attempt would come early in Reagan's term."

"The specific points were just deadly accurate," said Crespi. "The President was shot with a .22 handgun just outside the Washington Hilton, where brownstone buildings are common. And the shooting did take place early in Reagan's term, on the 70th day."

Macer-Story continued, "I could also clearly see details of the gunman."

"He was someone with intellectual capabilities, the son of a well-to-do family."

Would-be assassin John W. Hinckley Jr. is a former college student whose father heads an oil and gas exploration company. His parents live in an exclusive section of affluent Evergreen, Colo.

Radio listeners in New Hampshire learned of the Reagan shooting March 4 — more than three weeks before it happened — from a psychic house painter named John Monti. While a guest on WKBR radio's "Rudy Nelson Show" in Manchester, Monti stunned both Nelson and the audience with his vision of Reagan being shot on his left side.

"Monti said there would be several people shot, and that the President would not be killed," said Cynthia LaRose, a news reporter with the station. "He added that one of the people shot would not be the same after the incident."

Reagan's press secretary, James Brady, was shot in the brain in the attack. Doctors are still trying to determine how much brain damage he suffered.

The 30-year-old Quincy, Mass., house painter told how he first began to feel Reagan was in danger.

"The day before the radio show, I began to feel funny all over. I got the impression the President would be harmed walking toward a car."

Last fall, a dream warned Los Angeles psychic Betty Comes of the attack against the President.

Certain that what she saw was accurate, she had her written prediction witnessed by a notary public November 14 and immediately contacted THE ENQUIRER.

The note reveals Comes saw "a tall man with light hair" planning the assassination. "Someone will try to kill him," she wrote. "I don't see him being killed," recalled Bob Karson, a radio talk show host on Denver's station KIMN. "When the prediction came true I was shocked."

Psychic Monti added, "It's incredible that so many psychics from around the country were so clearly on target with this prediction. I think all of us are sorry we were right this time, but we're also delighted Mr. Reagan has recovered so well."

When to Hit the Boss for a Raise

Have you been plotting and planning to ask your boss for a raise? Some simple tips might help put that extra cash in your pocket.

When asking for a raise, it's most important to hit your boss at the right time, said Dr. Florence Seaman, a clinical psychologist at Pennsylvania State University. And here are some of the best times to ask:

• When your boss has gotten a raise, or when he's just had a happy occasion, such as a daughter's wedding. "Maybe he'll feel like sharing his happiness with you," Dr. Seaman said.

• When your boss has just eaten. "People with full stomachs are nearly always more open to persuasion."

• When your company or department has had a good year. "Obviously, if you're an office worker at Chrysler, you won't be asking for a raise. But if your company has stepped up production, the climate will be much, much better to see about a raise."

• Toward the very end of the week. "Instead of asking when your boss has the Monday blues, try a Thursday or Friday, but not when he's heading out the door for the weekend. He'll resent you for holding him up."

• When your department's annual budget is being prepared. "It'll be much easier for your boss to request the money for your raise then."

• When you've personally had a good year at work, gotten a promotion or new responsibilities. "You're pulling your weight, why not ask for a raise?" asked Dr. Seaman, coauthor of the book "Winning at Work."

On the other side of the coin, Dr. John Wakefield, a top California specialist in occupational psychotherapy, pointed out some times when it's best to postpone popping the big question:

• If your department has had a bad time, or the company as a whole is suffering.

• If your boss didn't get a raise or promotion he wanted. "Let him cool off first. He's going to blame everyone under him for not doing the job and letting him get the blame," Dr. Wakefield said.

• When you're going on or coming back from vacation. "The boss will most likely think, 'Look, you got a vacation. What's all this about wanting more money now?'"

"People should trust their own instincts about when to approach their boss," Dr. Wakefield concluded. "Often they can be a useful warning."

'Diff'rent Strokes' Star's Tragic Childhood

Dana Plato is a rich, happy youngster on the hit TV series "Diff'rent Strokes," but in real life her natural mother abandoned her at birth... and then her adoptive parents were divorced when she was 2.

"My mom was, I think, 17, just a young girl when she got herself in trouble and had a baby and went back home," said Dana, who is now 16.

"It must have been a bad time for her. It must have been really painful for her."

Dana said she has never tried to find out who her real mother is.

"I'm not really sure if I want to see her," said Dana, who is now 16.

Take in Large Doses... Vitamin C Speeds Healing of Surgical Wounds

Hunt added that postoperative use of vitamin C is a very common practice. Most surgeons do this—without explanation—until just recently.

"We've gone full cycle on vitamin C," said Dr. Neil Solomon.

"I really don't know why many doctors stopped using it until now—it's like some body rediscovered it."

Large doses of vitamin C are helping speed the healing of patients' surgical wounds, top experts say.

But although vitamin C's amazing healing capabilities were discovered and widely used 40 years ago, many doctors had stopped using it—without explanation—until just recently.

Bizarre Brainwashing Cult Cons Top Stars Into Backing Its Drug Program

Some of Hollywood's biggest stars have been duped into endorsing a controversial drug rehabilitation program called Narconon, which is actually operated by the bizarre brainwashing cult, the Church of Scientology.

More than 170 celebrities' names have been used as "Friends of Narconon." Although a few are Scientologists — such as Cathy Lee Crosby, Priscilla Presley and Karen Black — others were shocked to learn Narconon was an offshoot of the weird cult.

Many of the stars were listed as Friends of Narconon after they agreed to attend or participate in athletic events where the proceeds went to Narconon, which runs 15 treatment centers in the U.S. and 30 worldwide. Other celebrities on the list have no idea how their names got there.

Among the celebrities who were named as Friends of Narconon in a list submitted by Cathy Lee Crosby to a Congressional committee investigating drug abuse were:

Catherine Bach of "Dukes of Hazzard," John Davidson, Phyllis Diller, Gregory Harrison of "Trapper John, M.D.," Hal "Barney Miller" Linden, former heavyweight champ Ken Norton, Susan Richardson of "Eight Is Enough," Elvis Presley's former girlfriend Linda Thompson, writer-actor Mickey Spillane, Tanya Tucker, Fran Tarkenton, Charlene Tilton of "Dallas," Herve "Tattoo" Villechaise, Ralph Waite of "The Waltons," Henry "The Fonz" Winkler, Greg Evin of "BJ and the Bear," Ron Howard, former star of BLONDE Charlene Tilton of "Dallas" was on the list of stars.

"Happy Days," Lou "The Incredible Hulk" Ferrigno and Rob Reiner, who played the role of Archie Bunker's son-in-law on "All in the Family."

"It's true that Narconon's connection to Scientology is not specifically pointed out to every celebrity," admitted Mario Davis, a Scientologist who is executive vice president of Friends of Narconon in Beverly Hills.

However, he added, the celebrities were given pamphlets stating Narconon's drug rehabilitation program is based on the teachings of L. Ron Hubbard.

Hubbard is the founder of Scientology, although he is not identified that way in the pamphlets.

"It's disgraceful trickery because most people, including celebrities, would have nothing to do with Narconon if they knew of the Scientology connection," declared a former member of Scientology's top secret militant group called the Guardian's Office.

Recently, top leaders of the Scientology cult, including the wife of founder Hubbard, were convicted on federal charges in a massive conspiracy to infiltrate and burlesque government agencies, and thwart investigations of the controversial cult.

Spokesmen for several celebrities named as friends of Narconon expressed shock and dismay when they first learned that Narconon is a front for Scientology.

A spokesman for Henry Winkler said he "did not know that the Church of Scientology was involved... absolutely not!"

"Had we known, we would not have given permission for his name to be used."

A spokesman for Hal Linden said Linden "had no idea whatsoever" that Scientology was behind the drug program.

Phyllis Diller's spokesman said she wasn't even aware her name had been used as a Friend of Narconon.

"She wants her name removed from it," the spokesman said. "She doesn't want any part of it."

Similarly, spokesmen for Rob Reiner and Lou Ferrigno said those stars do not want their names to be associated with Scientology.

Narconon uses the same secret brainwashing techniques used by Scientologists to recruit new members into the cult, according to the former Scientologist, who was a member for five years.

Narconon charges drug addicts "outrageous" fees for

"NARCONON ALL STARS" Gregory Harrison of "Trapper John, M.D." and Cathy Lee Crosby at baseball game sponsored by the Scientology front.

DUPED by the cult was "Incredible Hulk" star Lou Ferrigno.

treatment, the informant revealed. There are four stages of treatment at Narconon centers — starting at $630 and reaching at least $3,500.

"How many drugies can pay those kinds of prices?" the ex-Scientologist asked.

Dr. Forrest S. Tennant Jr., a physician, public health specialist and a professor at UCLA, told THE ENQUIRER he was hired by the state of California to investigate Narconon.

His probe concluded the program not only made "unsubstantiated" claims about its cure rate, it was also "very dangerous."

"Scientology tells (drug addicts) they can detoxify them with vitamins — and they could die because they are not getting the proper treatment," he warned.

Curiosity Thrills the Cat

You've heard of playing cat and mouse, but how about cat and hamster? Here's a furry duo that knows how to play the game. Tom, a curious kitten, peers into a teacup (above) — and is surprised to see none other than his pint-sized pal, Jerry the hamster (right). Jerry, however, is so tickled to see Tom that he scampers all over him, while Tom shuts his eyes to his little friend's zany antics (bottom right).

Criminal Tendencies Are Determined by Age Three

The way a child is reared during the first three years can determine if he will turn into a criminal.

And once the die is cast by age 3 or 4, there's not much anyone can do.

That's the startling conclusion of a new report by the Canadian Senate Committee on Health, Welfare and Science.

"The basis for becoming a criminal is surely laid by the age of 3," said Sen. Fred McGrand, M.D., a physician and a member of the committee.

"If you teach children a decent set of values by the age of 3, or 4 at the latest, they'll be normal, law-abiding citizens. Otherwise, it will be much more difficult to do."

The report warns that negative factors on a child begin even when he's still in the womb. Pregnant women who smoke, drink, take drugs or go on fad diets adversely affect the growing fetus.

"Regarding the expectant mother's emotional state, severe and prolonged emotional stress during pregnancy may be a factor in the origins of behavior problems," said the report which was the result of three years' research by dozens of medical, psychiatric and police experts.

After the birth, the most important factor in planting the seeds for later criminal behavior is the lack of loving care. The quality of parenting determines the child's personality development, said the report.

Rev. James Aker says his Gospel message will last forever — and at 110 years old it looks like he might, too.

He's been preaching sermons for an astonishing 90 years, and plucky Rev. Aker says he has no intention of quitting.

"Stop preaching? There's no way in the world!" thundered the fiery old evangelist from Radford, Va.

His recipe for a long life is simple: "Faith in God and clean living."

I've been traveling all over the country preaching at revivals. I'm away from home for three weeks out of every month to this day.

"Some people call my preaching 'fire and brimstone.' But I'm proud of it if I'm getting the Word of God through to people."

"He really is amazing," marveled Rev. William Gillespie, a pastor in southwest Virginia. "He's a powerful evangelist. He has the energy and stamina of a man half his age."

"He was here in September and his sermon was as strong as ever."

"I have no intention of quitting," Rev. Aker beamed.

"After all — we're already booked for three week-long revivals a month through 1982!"

Abe 'Fish' Vigoda's Low-Gear Style Stalls His Career in Fast-Paced TV

By WILLIAM NEWCOTT

TV viewers loved him as the mumbbling, slow-moving Detective Fish on "Barney Miller" — but discern, Abe Vigoda is a lot like the character he played, and his easy pace is ruining his career, insiders say.

In the high-pressure, fast-paced world of Hollywood, few people today want to hire Vigoda, who likes to work at his own pace.

"Abe worked slower than the rest of us. He used to make directors pull their hair out," recalled Lenny Bari, a young actor who costarred in Vigoda's spin-off series "Fish."

"He had his own style. You couldn't expect him to run across the stage."

"We on the show thought it was funny — but the money people didn't."

"They've got a show to get out on budget and on schedule."

Since "Fish" folded in 1978, Vigoda has had few major roles.

He appeared recently in a TV children's special, "The Big Stuffed Dog," has done two plays and had guest spots on "Love Boat" and "Fantasy Island."

And according to a Hollywood agent, the lack of big jobs is a direct result of the star's poky approach to acting.

"He's got a horrible reputation in Hollywood," the agent said.

"Onscreen, Americans fell in love with him, but behind the camera he caused all kinds of havoc — from costly delays in production time to his outrageous salary demands."

"Anybody in this business knows that if you're appearing in a part on 'Love Boat' or 'Fantasy Island,' you're either on your way up the show business ladder or you're on the way down. In Abe Vigoda's case, we know which way that is."

"It's kind of tragic. Abe came from nowhere and returned to nowhere in just under five years. He was a producer's and a director's nightmare."

A "Barney Miller" director added, "Abe drove us crazy. His behavior was very frustrating, but because he was a star of the show, we had to be very patient."

"Vigoda just didn't understand what getting a show out on budget and schedule was all about."

"Time means money in television. The Abe Vigoda-style of acting isn't going to make money."

Audiences loved Vigoda's laid-back image, and as the popularity of his character grew with his fans, so did his salary demands, the director said.

"He thought that he was the hottest thing ever to come to TV."

But after "Fish" folded, Vigoda never returned as a regular on "Barney Miller," and the once-popular star was left without a weekly series.

But former "Fish" cast member Bari said things could have turned out differently, if only the high-pressure TV executives had been satisfied with Vigoda being himself.

"They should have given him less to do," the actor explained. "They knew his pace. They were dealing with Abe, who has a slower style."

My Feet Were Killing Me... Until I Discovered the Miracle in Germany!

It was the European trip I had always dreamed about. I had the time and money to go where I wanted—see what I wanted. But I soon learned that money and time don't mean much when your feet hurt too much to walk. After a few days of sightseeing my feet were killing me.

Oh, I tried to keep going. In Paris I limped through Notre Dame and along the Champs-Élysées. And I went up in the Eiffel Tower although I can't honestly say I remember the view. My feet were so tired and sore my whole body ached. While everybody else was having a great time, I was in my hotel room. I didn't even feel like sitting in a sidewalk cafe.

The whole trip was like that until I got to Hamburg, Germany. There, by accident, I happened to hear about an exciting breakthrough for anyone who suffers from sore, aching feet and legs.

This wonderful invention was a custom-made foot support called Flexible FeatherSpring. When I got a pair and slipped them into my shoes my pain disappeared almost instantly. The flexible shock absorbing support they gave my feet was like cradling them on a cushion of air. I could walk, stand even run. The relief was truly a miracle.

And just one pair was all I needed. I learned that women also can wear them—even with sandals and open backed shoes. They're completely invisible.

Imagine how dumbfounded I was to discover that these miraculous devices were sold only in Europe. Right then I determined that I would share the miracle I discovered in Germany with my own countrymen.

Over a quarter million Americans including those who have retired—many with foot problems far more severe than mine—have experienced this blessed relief for themselves.

Here's why FeatherSprings work for them and why they can work for you. These supports are like nothing you've ever seen before. They are custom formed and made for your feet alone! Unlike conventional devices, they actually imitate the youthful elastic support that Nature originally intended your feet to have.

Whatever your problem—corns, calluses, pain in the balls of your feet, burning nerve ends, painful ankles, old injuries, backaches or just generally sore, aching feet. Flexible FeatherSprings will bring you relief with every step you take or your money back.

Don't suffer pain and discomfort needlessly. If your feet hurt, the miracle of Germany can help you. Write for more detailed information. There is no obligation whatsoever. No salesman will call. Just fill out the coupon below and mail it today.

WHAT PEOPLE SAY ABOUT THE MIRACLE:

Received my wife's FeatherSprings two days ago. They are super—neither of us can believe the results. She has had terrible feet for years; already no pain. Incidentally, her sore knee is much better. As a retired physician, this result is amazing. Dr. C.O.C. Tucson, Arizona.

"My husband felt a great relief and no more pain. They are truly an answer to our prayers. Only wish that he had heard of them twenty years ago." Mrs. F.S. Metairie, Louisiana

"I have checked your corporation with (A Consumer Protection Agency), and received an excellent report." H.S.H. Louisville, Kentucky

Over & Out — at 150 M.P.H.

Zooming along the surface of the water at 150 miles an hour, this speedboat suddenly went out of control and flipped over. Incredibly, boat pilot Tom Black escaped serious injury — and the photo above shows why. As the boat flipped, he was automatically ejected from the cockpit and his small parachute opened, slowing him down and reducing his impact when he hit the water. The action photo was snapped during races held by the National Drag Boat Assn. at Ming Lake near Bakersfield, Calif.

Federal spendthrifts have pumped $1.2 million in tax funds into the silver-lined coffers of a super-rich oil firm!

An Ashland Oil Co. subsidiary was given the stupendous sum to build elaborate, permanent buildings for a synthetic fuels project that's supposed to last only two years.

Conveniently, the facility is next door to an Ashland refinery — and can be claimed by the oil company, at no cost, when the project is completed.

"The Department of Energy's (DOE) requirement was for the design of 'prefabricated buildings with little or no embellishment,'" reported DOE Deputy Inspector General Thomas S. Williamson Jr.

"But the Ashland subsidiary has constructed permanent buildings, installed expensive utilities and changed transportation facilities — apparently to facilitate future expansion of a nearby ... refinery."

Williamson pointed out that several of the buildings constructed at taxpayer expense were "built to last 40 years."

"Hundreds of thousands of dollars could have been saved if the Ashland subsidiary had adhered to contract specifications and DOE recommendations."

James Butler, a spokesman for the Ashland subsidiary, claimed the DOE

A Slick Waste Of Your Taxes

actually "approved our plans to build that type of building. This shouldn't be any surprise to them."

Not so, responded William Baptiste of the Inspector General's office.

"It's debatable whether anyone in DOE approved it," he declared. "They did send some plans in here — but the program manager, due to other workload requirements, didn't get around to looking at them until construction was well underway — and it was too late to change what was going on."

"The thing that's important is that a facility I considered in excess of our needs was built down there."

And an angry Rep. Ron Paul (R-Tex.) thundered: "The entire synthetic fuel program is nothing but corporate welfare — and a waste of the taxpayers' money. This is a perfect example."

Pup Snuggles Up Between the Covers

There's nothing like a good book when you're dog-tired! After letting out a big, contented yawn, this cocker spaniel is ready to snuggle between the covers with some heavy reading — but the pup had better not get the pages of those books too dog-eared. These adorable shots first appeared in our Jan. 6, 1974, issue, and we're running them again as part of our series of memorable ENQUIRER photos from past years.

Wash your windows the professional way — and you won't see streaks, drips or smudges. That's the advice of noted professional cleaning expert Don A. Aslett. Here, in an excerpt from his book "Is There Life After... Housework?" exclusive in The ENQUIRER, Aslett teaches ENQUIRER readers the right way to wash windows.

By DON ASLETT

At my seminars on housecleaning, I always spring the question, "How many of you just 'love' to clean your windows?" I always receive a chorus of groans and wailing out of the ladies present.

And why not? After hours of laboriously polishing on windows, one thinks "at last, I'm finished!" Rope is dashed to pieces when the sun comes up... streaks, sheens, drips and smears appear out of nowhere.

In instant anger, the window is again given the old college try, and all those sheens, streaks, and drips only change places. The resulting discouragement from this time-consuming job is generally justified.

Professional window washers, on the other hand, do whole banks of windows in minutes, not hours. Home-makers can be just as effective on their windows if they learn the same basic techniques.

The first move toward successful window cleaning is to rid your storage cabinet of all that "magic glass wax" garbage which you have been trying to make work for years.

The primary reason your window streaks and seems to get worse is probably the oily soapy gunk you have been spraying on them.

To recover all those polishing hours for the last 15 years, let's learn to do the windows professionally.

Go down to the janitorial supply house and buy a professional brass or stainless steel squeegee with a 9-, 12- or 14-inch blade. "Steecone" and "Unger" make good ones.

Don't go to the local grocery store or discount house and buy those reconditioned truck tire rubber war clubs. They will not work well, even in a professional's hands.

Pick up some type of window cleaning solution — just ordinary liquid Joy, ammonia, or high sodium phosphate. All will work well if you use them sparingly. One-half lid or capful is plenty for each gallon of cleaner! There is always a tendency to add too much chemical or soap solution, though this is what causes streaks.

Mix in a bucket of warm water and then, using a clean sponge, soft bristle brush, or a clean cloth applicator, lightly wet the window. Quickly pick up your squeegee, wipe the dry rubber blade with a damp cloth or chamomile.

Tilt the squeegee at an angle pressing the end of the squeegee lightly against the top of the window glass, and pull across the window horizontally. This will leave about a two-inch dry area across the top of the window.

Wipe the squeegee blade again with the damp cloth and place the rubber blade horizontally in the dry area and... then pull down, keeping enough lap-over in the dry clean area so as to avoid any surplus water running in the area you have cleaned (wipe the squeegee after each pass).

After completing a window, you undoubtedly will spot a tiny mark or two of moisture on the one-eighth inch area where the side of the glass meets the frame. Your old tendency is to snatch a dry cloth and with a fingertip under it, wipe off the edge. This will undoubtedly leave a finger mark on the side where the window touches the casing.

After squeegeeing the window, just leave those one-eighth inch beads of side moisture. It will disappear and you'll never see it.

AN 'I' FOR DETAIL

A small town couple celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary were asked by a reporter to sum up the reasons for their long and happy marriage.

The husband said, "I've always tried not to be selfish. After all, there is no 'I' in the word marriage."

The wife smiled and said sweetly, "For my part, I have made it a practice never to correct my husband's spelling."

Why I Love America

By ANN JILLIAN

Star of "It's a Living"

I love America because it saved my parents from tyranny, helped my older brother, Benito, to recover from polio, and made me into a Hollywood star.

I owe Uncle Sam lots of loyalty, and he'll have it till the day I die.

I was just a little girl sitting on my father's knee when he told me how my family escaped from Russian oppression. My parents fled on two bicycles from Lithuania when Benito was just a baby, his role in a basket on the handlebars as my parents raced toward the border.

As I grew up, I realized that America opened its arms to my parents and sheltered them from harm. It gave them freedom and great joy.

My mother, who comes from a noble family, and my father, who was an air force pilot, came to this country after they spent years and years on the run.

They were forced to leave all their wealth behind and start from scratch, with very little knowledge of the English language.

This wonderful country was patient with them. It nurtured them and gave them a chance to get on their feet. It fed and clothed them and gave them real security in their time of need.

And America gave my brother Benito the chance to walk when he could have been tragically crippled by polio.

You see, by the time that my parents got to America Benito was suffering from polio. Other children in Europe were suffering from the same disease and many died, or never walked again.

But America's sophisticated medical establishment — and its genuine concern — cured my brother.

America has really made my family's dreams come true — and mine, too.

Thank God for America.

If somebody comes along and offers you the world on a platter — take the platter.

Too Much Exercise Can Wreck Your Marriage

Too much exercise can wreck a marriage — just like alcoholism and drug addiction, according to two psychiatrists.

"The problem of the 'exerciseaholic' appears to be increasingly pronounced in our society," said Dr. Robert Amstadter, psychiatrist and medical director of Sacred Heart Lodge Hospital in El Monte, Calif.

"Nothing in excess is good for you, and that includes exercise. When physical activity interferes with family relationships or with work, the exerciser has an emotional problem."

Exerciseaholics use their addiction to "run away" from deep problems, added Dr. Norman Tamarkin, a psychiatrist who addressed a recent White House symposium on physical fitness.

"These are men who run at lunchtime, run for two hours when they get home at night, grab a bite to eat and pass out — getting to sleep early so they can run in the morning."

"They don't spend much time with their kids," he said. "They don't talk to their wives. A wife may feel her husband is neglecting her, putting the exercise first."

In addition, he said, compulsive exercising can lead to resentment between husband and wife.

"The wife may be threatened by the fact that suddenly he's looking better and she's not," Dr. Tamarkin said.

Are you an exercise junkie? Dr. Tamarkin created this short test to help you find out:

1) Do you feel anxious or guilty if you miss one day of exercise, even if you have a good reason?

2) Do you continue your regular exercise routine even when you're injured or sick?

3) Do you spend more than 50 percent of your available free time exercising?

4) Does your exercise routine often make you late for work or meetings?

5) Does exercise always take precedence over relationships with people?

6) Do you ignore family members' criticism about the effect your exercise routine has on them?

7) Do you feel like your body is falling apart if you

Farm Dogs, Elephants & Porpoises Are World's Happiest Animals

Farm dogs, elephants and porpoises are the world's happiest animals, say experts.

Famed zoologist Dr. Desmond Morris thinks the farm dog enjoys the happiest life. "It lives a rewarding life with plenty of interesting work and exercise so it doesn't get bored."

"It also has a very important ingredient for happiness — security. When it's sick, someone takes care of it and it always has plenty of food," added Dr. Morris, author of "Naked Ape" and "Animal Days."

Jack Hanna, Columbus

(Ohio) Zoo director, believes the female elephant is the happiest animal.

"Most animals' happiness comes from a physical situation, being warm and well, being with a mate and living without fear of being hunted. Nobody attacks the elephant except man so when it's protected, it doesn't have anything to fear. It lives a very contented life with other elephants because they all get along very well."

"The female is probably happier than the male since the male tries to be dominant in the herd and this often results in unhappiness and frustration. The female has the security and companionship of the herd and has the rewarding role of bringing up offspring."

"I also consider the elephant one of the most intelligent animals and this adds to its happiness."

Porpoises are one of the happiest animals too, said Dennis Grimm, past president of the American Assn. of Zoo Keepers.

"They have very few natural enemies in the wild except for man. They are known to be playful and have no problems finding food."

"The family life of a porpoise provides comfort and security and they get along well with each other."

"It's a curious and very intelligent animal. It's happier than man could ever be because it does not live the complicated life that man does."
